Looks as though liquor board prices, like the commodity, should be watered down

Tanker Survivors Await Rescue

Survivors stand on storm-tossed stern of the 10,000-ton tanker Fort Mercer and await rescue from the shattered hulk. The vessel broke in two during a heavy northeast storm which lashed the New England coast. Most of the crew were removed by the coast guard late Tuesday afternoon.—(INP Soundphoto.)

Government Lacks Mandate, Johnson Tells Legislature

Premier Byron Johnson declared yesterday that his shattered Coalition government has no mandate to carry on, and that he will call a general election as soon as possible.

He announced his plans in a 9,000-word policy statement which he read to the provincial legislature when he moved the reply to the Speech from the Throne.

He said he will ask the House only to pass a full-year budget and to enact certain "essential and necessary legislation" before he asks for dissolution.

He said he has already asked the chief electoral officer to begin preparations for an election, which will be held as soon as the voters' list is brought up-to-date.

Opposition Leader Herbert Anscomb will open the debate on the Speech from the Throne when the legislature sits today at 2.30 p.m.

REPORTS PIGEONHOLED

The premier said only four items out of the voluminous Sloan Report on the Workmen's Compensation Act will be put before this session.

Inquiry board reports on the Hospital Insurance Act and the Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration Act will be pigeonholed.

Premier Johnson called on the next government of B.C. to pledge itself to deal with the three reports at a special session next fall.

He said he could not ask the present House to go into the three reports fully because it might be subjected to influence by pressure groups "or the sort of bargaining that attends a government which in the first place has no mandate from the electorate to deal with such important matters and at the best has only a very small majority in the House."

ANSCOMB'S APPROVAL

Premier Johnson's government now includes 23 Liberals and three Coalitionists. It faces a reconstituted opposition of 11 Conservatives, eight C.C.F.'ers, two independents and one labor-lite.

The premier said his decision to hold an early election should have the approval of Opposition Leader Herbert Anscomb, because that is just what Mr. Anscomb asked the government to do, after he was fired as finance minister a month ago.

He said "there is not one group in this House that has the right to proceed with matters of such importance" as the three reports.

"I make this statement," he said, "in the face of public utterances of the honorable the first member for Vancouver East (C.C.F. leader Harold Winch).

NO MANDATE

He said an election is necessary because "I feel that the Coalition government of this province, as it is now constituted, has no mandate from the people to carry on since the main partnership has been broken.

"I feel that this government has no right to jeopardize the interests and welfare of the people by submitting itself to those who would take advantage of the situation through pressure groups and the usual bargaining in order to maintain a government in power, or in the hope of driving the government to dissolution."

He said the House will be asked to pass a budget for the full year.

COULD PROLONG

An interim budget, suggested earlier, "would be tantamount to issuing a blank check committing some future government to expenditures and policies with which it might not be in agreement."

This announcement means the House will go into a full-dress budget debate, which could prolong the session indefinitely.

The House will also be asked to ratify a new federal-provincial tax agreement.

THINGS UNAVOIDABLE

Apart from this, the budget and the Sloan Report items, the only legislation to come before this session will be "those things which we cannot avoid and which we feel obligated to carry out."

These will include:

Construction of the Squamish-Vancouver highway. This is needed to relieve pressure on rail traffic moving through Squamish by barge to Vancouver. A lumber assembly plant may be built at Squamish as a stop-gap measure until funds and steel are available to complete the P.G.E. link to Vancouver.

Improvement of the Northern Trans-Provincial Highway, necessary because of the "great industrial expansion" of the central interior.

An extensive program of secondary road improvements.

Continuance of the province's construction of schools, hospitals and other public buildings.

Plebiscite on Liquor To Be Held With Vote

Premier Byron Johnson yesterday gave British Columbians an indication of what they can expect in the way of a liquor plebiscite.

He said the government will hold a plebiscite on liquor "long a contentious matter" at the coming election.

"A simply-worded question will be placed before the voters with a view to determine whether they want the liquor act broadened in its scope," the premier said.

"I have no observations to make on this matter beyond what I have already said. Each and every citizen knows his own mind and will have an opportunity of expressing his view."

This was taken to mean that the voters would be asked to say simply whether or not they wanted the province's liquor law changed. If the answer was yes, the decision on just what changes were to be made presumably would be left up to the government.

Previous speculation was that the voters might be asked to approve one of several plans: sale of drinks in hotel cocktail lounges; sale of beer and wines in restaurants; or a local-option proposition.

Attorney-General Gordon Wismer earlier said the government had no intention of slanting the wording of the question to favor either wet or dry factions.

Winch Knocks Speech Release

C.C.F. leader Harold Winch yesterday blasted at what he considered a premature release of Premier Byron Johnson's seven-point policy statement.

The speech appeared in afternoon papers before Mr. Johnson began to deliver the address in the provincial Legislature.

When the second sitting of the current session began at 2.35 p.m. yesterday, Mr. Winch rose to speak on a question of privilege.

He displayed a copy of The Victoria Daily Times, which he said "gives the text of the premier's statement before the speech is made."

Mr. Johnson began his address just before 3 p.m.

The speech was also reported in The Vancouver Sun and The Vancouver Daily Province in early afternoon editions, which were available to the public before the Premier began his speech. Canadian Press, Canada's national news service, based its stories on afternoon events, only after receiving flashes that the events were taking place.

"In 18 years and 22 sessions in this house," said Mr. Winch, "I have never seen anything of this kind."

He said he could understand that reporters should be given copies of major speeches in advance, but that they should not be published until the speeches had been read in the house.

He said that less than half an hour before he had asked for a copy of the premier's statement. "I was told I couldn't get it," he said.

"This is something that can't be allowed to pass without something being said about it," he declared.

He proposed a motion that, "The house regrets that matters of legislative importance are published before they have been presented to the legislature."

MOTION WITHDRAWN

He later withdrew the motion.

Premier Johnson replied that it was common practice "to give copies to the press on the understanding that they wouldn't be used until a certain time."

"I regret very much that the speech is in the paper before I have made my speech in the House," he said.

The reason Mr. Winch was unable to get a copy of the speech when he had asked for it, Mr. Johnson said, was that last-minute changes were being made in the statement.

Opposition Leader Herbert Anscomb suggested that, inasmuch as the speech had already been fully reported, the Premier might save time by not bothering to read it to the House.

Broken Ship Under Tow; 13 Aboard

BOSTON, Feb. 20 (AP).—Two tugs started towing the stern section of the storm-broken tanker Fort Mercer toward land tonight. The hulk has 13 seamen still aboard.

The coast guard received a message that the tow is under way off Cape Cod. Two tugs, the Foundation Josephine out of Halifax and the M. Moran took the derelict section in tow, bound in the direction of Nantucket lightship.

The tug Ocean Prince is standing by and the coast guard cutter Eastwind is escorting the convoy.

The Foundation Josephine got a line aboard the stricken stern section in mid-afternoon. Shortly after, the Moran transferred medical supplies from the cutter to the stern hulk. Two of the 13 seamen still aboard the wrecked craft are ill, one with pneumonia.

The 13 aboard are the last of a total of 84 men who were on the Mercer and another tanker, the Pendleton, when a northeaster cracked them both in two Sunday night and Monday. They stayed aboard to help in salvage attempts; 21 of their companions had been removed earlier.

Six men were killed in the battle with the elements, eight are missing and presumed dead, and 57 were rescued.

Passengers Stranded By Blizzard

STE. THERESE, Que., Feb. 20 (CP).—Forty-four persons are stranded near this lonely Gaspe Peninsula village because their Canadian National Railways train was virtually snowed under in a blizzard Monday night. All, including four women and two children, are safe.

About half all men, including the six crew members, are still on the train, crowded in the baggage and express cars heated by the locomotive.

The women and children were taken into homes near the stalled train while more than 15 men stumbled 1½ miles through the storm to a hotel near here.

A rotary plow, sent from Chandler to free the seven-car train, tonight was reported at Grande Riviere, about eight miles from here. It is making slow progress due to snowdrifts.

A C.N.R. official at Campbellton, N.B., said the train will have to be pulled back about 16 miles to a siding at Ste. Adelaide before the rotary plow can move ahead to clear the tracks.

T.L.C. Won't Fight Bus Fare Increase

Motion for Protest Defeated As B.C.E.R. Workers Object

By BILL MAVOR

The Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council (A.F.L.—T.L.C.) will not oppose the B.C. Electric Co.'s application for higher bus fares in Greater Victoria.

A motion that the council protest higher fare was defeated 31 to 26. The vote was taken by secret ballot after an hour and a half of last night's meeting of the council.

The protest motion had come to the council recommended for passage by the arrangements committee.

Victoria Labor Council (T.L.C.) last night voted to oppose the B.C. Electric proposed increased bus fares.

Notice of the opposition will be sent city council, Public Utilities Commission and the provincial government.

The surprise development came after spirited opposition to the motion by two delegates employed by the B.C. Electric Co.

Stickley Harris, delegate from the B.C. Electric Office Employees indicated that a motion opposing an increase in fares would have the same effect as a motion opposing an increase in wages.

EMPLOYEES SAT ON

"Why are the employees sat on every time the B.C. Electric asks for an increase?" he asked.

He quoted a Daily Colonist story showing that wage increases were being sought at present by thousands of Victoria workers.

"The 8½-cent an hour increase granted March 1 to the Street Railwaymen's Union would cost the company $70,000 a year," he said, pointing out that the company lost $350,000 on its transit operations last year.

"The proposed increase is not to make the system pay but to cut losses to $240,000 a year," Harris said.

"Surely during inflation it has been recognized that costs enter into a product's selling price," stated Frank French, S.R.U., delegate.

SAME CONDITIONS

"Our men are living under the same inflationary conditions."

The increase within the 3½ mile circle is about 66 per cent since 1939, minor when other increased living costs are considered, he said.

"Few here would wish company union members to subsidize transit at the expense of the next contract," French said.

Council secretary Percy Rayment pointed out that council had never opposed wage increases for the B.C. Electric employees and at times had endorsed the demands. The question is whether to support the company to bring up its operations to the rate of interest the company is allowed, he said.

To assume council is protesting wage increases is to draw a "red herring" across the discussion, Rayment said.

OUT OF ORDER

Legislative committee chairman Harold Thayer noted that the recommendation had nothing to do with wage increases. An amendment by the Building Trades Council, support the B.C.E.R. in wage increases was ruled out of order by president Robert Battle.

Dave Robertson, T.L.C. delegate, spoke against the motion, but the time when a founding member became anti-Union was carpeted by opponents.

Peter Gribbs, acting president, stated he felt the council should be left to the people. Council was too big an authority to endorse employers' desire to pass costs when wages increased, he said.

Truman Renewed Pact With U.K. on Atom Work

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP).—Exclusive.—A member of the joint congressional atomic committee disclosed today that President Truman renewed an atomic agreement with England in 1948 which has helped enable the British to utilize raw materials for their own atomic.

He said that the President acted on his own authority, despite some congressional sentiment that England was vulnerable to a Russian attack which would permit the Soviets to capture atomic secrets.

The statements were made by Rep. Van Zandt (Rep., Pa.).

The President acted despite the position of some committee members that any new agreement should provide that stockpiling of uranium and other bomb ingredients be confined to the Western Hemisphere and that England agree not to manufacture atomic weapons, Rep. Van Zandt said.

He explained that the President acted within the law in renewing the agreement, which he said divided uranium ore from the Belgian Congo with about two-thirds of the raw material going to the United States and one-third to England.

Van Zandt and other committee members expressed concern over the announcement Sunday that England will test an atomic weapon this year in Australia. Several members said they would oppose any greater exchange of atomic information between the two countries as a result of the test.

One representative said: "They can't possibly give us enough information to balance the scale. I see no reason for making any change in the law."

Sen. Brien McMahon (Dem., Conn.), committee chairman, said that "we may now consider rethinking the entire situation with all the facts in front of us."

Indications are, however, that McMahon has no intention of pressing for revision of the law until after the British weapon is tested.

Court Orders Men to Sell Pulp Shares

VANCOUVER, Feb. 20 (CP).—Two men holding 35 of the 100,000 shares in British Columbia Pulp & Paper Co. Ltd., have been ordered to sell their shares to the Montreal Trust Co.

Mr. Justice J. M. Coady, of the British Columbia Supreme Court, Tuesday dismissed the claim of W. G. Rathie of Vancouver, that he was not forced to sell his 25 shares in the company.

Also affected by the decision is Ward Hugson Powell of Ottawa, who owns 10 shares of B.C. Pulp and who contested the right of a company to put a set price on shares.

Both parties challenged the validity of Section 121 of the Dominion Companies Act.

The case is a result of a deal last year in which the Montreal Trust Co. purchased all but 35 of the 100,000 shares in the B.C. firm for the Abitibi Power & Paper Co. at $200 a share.

The Trust Company is invoking a section of the Companies Act to call in the 35 shares because more than 99 per cent of the outstanding shares have been turned in.

Will Probated At $1,358,396

Will of W. Hobart Molson, who died suddenly last November has been probated in Supreme Court at $1,358,396.

Court Dating Back in Tradition Soon to Name Queen's Champion

LONDON, Feb. 20 (Reuters).—A court 600 years old in tradition will meet soon to select a "Champion of England" from the ranks of British nobility to challenge and fight anyone at the coronation of the Queen who publicly opposes her rule.

The Court of Claims has to hear petitions made by many noble families to perform this and other historic functions at the coronation of a British sovereign.

It will decide who will be Champion of England, who will carry the golden spurs, the crystal mace, cloth canopies and other trappings of pageantry.

The Champion of England dates back to the coronation of Queen Mary I in 1553 when Sir Edward Dymoke rode on a charger into the banqueting hall at Westminster, threw down his great gauntlet and cried:

"If any man say and maintain that Queen Mary is not the right and undoubted inheritrix to the Imperial Crown of this realm of England, I say he lieth like a false traitor."

A descendant of Dymoke who is known to be living is expected to get the job at this coronation without the charger. But, if history repeats itself, the court will have some spirited contests before it for other honors.

One of the likeliest battles will be over who shall carry the Great Gold Spurs. In 1189, a member of the Marshal family carried the royal spurs for Richard I and since then a descendant of that family has claimed the privilege.

Before the coronation of King George IV in 1820, three men and four women claimed rightful descent from the original Marshal. The Court of Claims deferred judgment and left it to the King to decide who should carry his spurs. Two of the men shared the honor.

The Bishops of Durham and of Bath are expected to claim the ancient right to "support" the young Queen "Ye first on her right hand and ye second on her left in ye solemn progression."

One of the most ancient privileges is that of the lord of the manor of workshop, Nottinghamshire, to present a right-hand glove to the Sovereign and to support her right arm while she holds the Imperial Sceptre.

The court, first held in 1377 for the coronation of Richard II, will soon be appointed by the Queen to start sifting through claims.

Calvert Elected Calgary Bishop

Rev. G. R. Calvert, Dean of Christ Church Cathedral, Victoria, was elected fourth Bishop of Calgary at a special session of the Synod of Anglican Diocese of Calgary yesterday afternoon.

"I accept with pride and humility the position you have bestowed on me and the right to minister for and with you," Dean Calvert said in a telephone message from Toronto where he is attending a meeting of the Missionary Society of the Church of England.

Very Rev. James Craig, Dean of Calgary and administrator of the diocese since the retirement of Bishop H. R. Ragg, last Dec. 31, telephoned Dean Calvert in Toronto following the final count.

Dean Calvert said he was highly honored and felt in his own heart that he would accept the position but before officially doing so he wished to contact his wife in Victoria. A short meeting was held by delegates and word was received back from Dean Calvert a few minutes later.

NO DATE SET

It is not yet known when the dean will take office.

He was born in Kingston in 1900, and as a result of a close association with Dr. T. W. Savary, then rector of St. James, Kingston, he entered Wycliffe College.

He was graduated with honors in 1925.

While on vacations from the college he served as a student in mission fields of Manitoba and in 1925 was ordained deacon by the Bishop of Niagara for work in Rupert's Land.

The following year he was ordained priest by the same bishop.

In 1925 he married Kate Vernona Moor of Oxbow, Sask., a graduate of the University of Toronto and together they went to Snowflake, Man.

Since that time the Bishop and Mrs. Calvert have served in Holland, Killarney, St. Anne's, West Kildonan and at St. Matthew's, Winnipeg.

In 1940 he became a canon of the Diocese of Rupert's Land and was appointed archdeacon at Winnipeg in 1945.

He is one of the four clerical members of the executive committee of the executive council of the Church of England in Canada.

REBUILT CHURCH

In 1949 he was appointed Honorary Canon of St. John's Cathedral and in 1945 was made Archdeacon of Winnipeg.

One of his most outstanding achievements was the rebuilding of St. Matthew's Church, Winnipeg after it was destroyed by fire in 1944.

The new church was opened and dedicated Feb. 2, 1947.

In January, 1949, he was installed as Dean of Christ Church Cathedral, Victoria, and served in that capacity until his election yesterday.

He was honored with a degree of Doctor of Divinity, Honoris Causa, by Wycliffe College on Nov. 22, 1948.

Bishop and Mrs. Calvert have one daughter, Mary Elizabeth, who is a librarian at the Vic Public Library.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

A piece about a gentleman who smoked dried maple leaves appeared in this space recently. Now, in a letter, comes more information on bargain-rate puffing.

"I meant to add that when I aid myself of the horrid practice of the tobacco drug, I put on 20 pounds weight in short order, which, as I was about that much underweight previously, was quite pleasing."

So writes the smoker who may in time be acclaimed as a Canadian Sir Walter Raleigh.

"On the other hand, any pecuniary advantage obtained by the discontinuance of the drug was negatived by the enormous increase in the consumption of roast beef, Brussels sprouts, lemon pie, suet puddings and similar articles dear to the heart of the true Briton.

"The hope of transferring my expenditure on tobacco to one on beer was thus frustrated. There was no craving for candies which some say results from giving up smoking.

"Joking apart, the experiment has convinced me that tobacco is mildly deleterious, though no more than many other ways we punish our health. The craving was quite sharp for the first week or two. I have not found this to be the case with maple leaves. They have a distinct flavor and I find that I do not now like the taste of tobacco when some is forced on me."

Well, I'm convinced. Next time I rake the lawn, I'll sweep the debris straight into my tobacco pounch.

Some comments about the eccentric attitude of ex-prairie people to Coast weather drew letters.

"After the Saskatchewan winters one can hardly call this winter," wrote Mrs. Gladys Skinner of 140 Willingdon Place. "It is more like a prolonged autumn. After the rain it dries up so quickly, and even what little snow you have soon goes.

"The biggest treat is not having to wear a parka and fleece-lined overshoes . . . At least there are some Saskatchewan people who appreciate Victoria's weather."

"Prairie folk get cold indoors, rather than outdoors, in B.C.," writes Mrs. White, formerly of Regina. "On the prairies the houses are built better than the houses here. There, too, Jack Frost seals up every crevice in the outer wall, so it is easier to heat the houses there . . . If they get a January or February thaw, they notice the difference at once.

"Also the atmospheric pressure is greater here. This lowers the blood pressure, which weakens one's resistance to the cold. Then . . . one's system gradually gets used to the dampness. I have been here six years and notice the difference less every year. I hope you will now consider the prairie folk sane in winter as well as in summer."

Psychology and religion do not contradict one another, says a Gladstone Avenue lady.

Psychology, she writes, "had brought home to me the meaning of a great many Bible truths which have been shrouded in vague ecclesiastical terms. I firmly believe that the study of psychology is the latest development in God's plan for the world, and when the people will visit a psychiatrist to have their emotional troubles straightened as readily as they now consult a physician, then the millenium will be here."

General Will Scan Work of Gunners

Eagle eyes of Western Canada's top army man will scan the skies off Albert Head this afternoon to see what he can expect in the way of anti-aircraft defense in this area.

He is Major-Gen. Christopher Vokes, commander of the army's western division, who is here on a two-day visit of the artillery [illegible] with Brig. William Megill, B.C. Area Commander.

Yesterday he inspected 340 officers and men on the parade square at Gordon Head and later toured Work Point Barracks training facilities.

Today, however, the gunners will be on their toes to show what they can do with the heavy anti-aircraft guns. A direct hit or two will be another feather in their caps after the praise they got from the general yesterday.

"It's been a fine turn-out. You were first class and I am pleased," he told the young soldiers who were wearing full packs and carrying rifles.

He told the men he believed there was nothing better than a smart soldier—and "absolutely nothing worse than a sloppy one."

Accompanying the visiting officers during the inspections was Lieut.-Col. Arthur Perron, officer commanding the local garrison.

Commanding yesterday's parade was Major W. H. Roberts and second in command was Capt. M. Holmes, acting commander of 119 Battery.

Inquest Date Not Decided In Drowning

No date has been set for an inquest into the death of Robert L. Heal, 21, of 1493 Myrtle, who was reported missing and believed drowned last Monday, from the naval harbor tug Glendon, R.C.M.P. said yesterday.

A two-day search of Esquimalt Harbor has failed to disclose any trace of Heal's body, police said.

Naval officials reported that a board of inquiry is being held in connection with the mishap.

W. R. Hannay Passes Barber Examination

W. R. Hannay of Victoria was one of 10 successful applicants in the examinations of the Barbers' Association of British Columbia held this month, the association announced yesterday.

To Probe Airports

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—President Truman today appointed a special commission to make an investigation into air crashes and crowded airports. He named the famed flier, James H. Doolittle, as chairman. Doolittle, a retired general, led the first raid on Tokyo in the Second World War.

Double Warning Given N.A.T.O. Lisbon Parley

LISBON, Portugal, Feb. 20 (CP) — Atlantic Pact ministers met in sunny Lisbon today to try to translate armies on paper into armies in the field.

State Secretary Dean Acheson of the United States, warned the Allied powers "what we have done so far will be of little value unless we finish the job."

Two new members, Greece and Turkey, joined the 12 western allies at the meeting attended by foreign, defense and finance ministers. Greece and Turkey were welcomed into the council by L. B. Pearson, Canadian external affairs minister, who is chairman of the session.

Besides the two new members, the council is composed of the U.S., Britain, France, Canada, Portugal, Belgium, The Netherlands, Luxembourg, Italy, Norway, Denmark and Iceland.

Pearson said the session is of critical importance in determining whether the N.A.T.O. coalition will become a strong and lasting association for peace and progress.

He warned the delegates the alternative is "a fretful and uneasy alliance, held together by a feeling of common danger, without much depth or conviction beyond that incentive."

Delegates privately express the opinion that failure to reconcile Franco-German differences over the European army and Germany's new international status might spell disaster to N.A.T.O. plans for the defense of Western Europe.

Portuguese foreign minister Paulo Cunha, broke into his welcoming speech to plead for admission of Spain to the alliance. He blasted Spain's exclusion as a strategic absurdity and said defense of the Iberian peninsula is indivisible.

Truman Gives No Answer On Agreement

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (INS) — President Truman flatly refused today to say whether he had entered into any private agreement with British Prime Minister Churchill to send U.S. troops anywhere abroad.

Mr. Truman took this position at his news conference shortly after the House handed his administration a severe defeat by demanding full details of the Truman-Churchill talks.

The House made its demand despite assurances by the state department that no new U.S. military commitments were made during the Anglo-American talks at the White House last month.

Mr. Truman declined to comment on the House's action. He said he had not seen the House resolution calling for the details and would not say anything until he at least had a chance to learn exactly what the chamber did.

When a newsman asked the President about any possible private troop deals with Churchill, Mr. Truman replied with a crisp no comment.

Civilian, Not Police Spotted U.S. Criminal

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (INS) — The New York police department, a bit embarrassed, conceded today that a civilian and not their own cops put the finger on slippery Willie Sutton, the notorious bank robber captured last Monday in Brooklyn.

The civilian is Arnold Schuster, a 24-year-old Brooklyn pants salesman and Coast Guard veteran.

Up to the time Police Commissioner George Monaghan gave full credit to Schuster all the laurels for the capture of the nation's "most wanted criminal" has gone to three Brooklyn cops, all of whom had been promoted by Monaghan immediately following the arrest.

The facts came out today as top brass of the department conducted an investigation. The result was Monaghan held a news conference in which Schuster emerged as the hero and possible heir to at least a part of $70,000 in rewards.

Schuster said he noticed a man on a subway who resembled a fugitive on an F.B.I. "wanted" circular. He said he tailed the man until he saw a patrol car; then called the police in to make the arrest.

Alaska Vote Likely in Week

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (INS) — Senate Democratic leader McFarland said today he is sure the Senate will reach agreement to vote on the Alaska statehood bill by next Wednesday.

The Arizona senator indicated he preferred action on the measure before that time but he said he is willing to accept delay to insure full debate on the matter.

Meanwhile, Sen. Moody (D-Mich.) told the Senate that "any broad gauge view of America's security as well as its economic future must include Alaska."

Oddities

TIMMINS, Ont., Feb. 20 (CP) — Albert Chalifoux, Timmins coal dealer, opening a newly-arrived box-car, found it full of loose wheat instead of lump coal.

He said jokingly: "I'll sell it to anyone for half price, but whoever buys it will have to bag it himself."

The railway company is trying to find out who owns the wheat and what happened to Chalifoux's coal.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 20 (INS) —Mrs. Norma Cook, 31, and Arthur Paschel, 47, were struck by a car near the Hollywood Palladium today and rushed to Hollywood receiving hospital where they were treated for serious injuries.

Immediately after the accident they were handed jay-walking citations.

Radiophoto Unties Marital Tangle

LONDON, Feb. 21 (Thursday) (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor and British actor Michael Wilding said early today they had cleared away the last obstacle by radiophoto and definitely will be married at 11.30 a.m. London time.

Liz had forgotten to bring along a copy of the papers that proved she was divorced from Nicky Hilton, American hotel heir.

To satisfy British authorities, photographs of the papers were sent by radio late Wednesday night from New York, and the registrar at Caxton Hall who will perform the civil ceremony said they will be accepted as authentic.

Judgment Reserved

VANCOUVER, Feb. 20 (CP) — Mr. Justice Norman Whittaker decided today to reserve judgment for another 24 hours before making his final ruling which will determine the course of the big bookmaking conspiracy case now in its sixth day in Assize Court here.

Basically, the decision revolves on whether the prosecution can establish that bookmaking took place in certain premises simply by showing that convictions were obtained over the years in police court against individuals connected with those premises.

This was done in the preliminary hearing 565 times. But when a police witness mentioned on Tuesday that one of the accused was convicted of bookmaking in 1947, the defence objected and precipitated a lengthy trial within a trial.

Outbreak of Contagious Cattle Disease Restricts Prairie Livestock Exports

REGINA, Feb. 20 (CP) — An outbreak of a contagious animal disease in southern Saskatchewan has put a temporary crimp in Canada's livestock exports.

Top veterinarians of the federal and Saskatchewan governments acted swiftly to stop the disease from spreading after it was first reported at the start of the week.

Livestock receiving points in Regina and Moose Jaw, Sask., today remained under quarantine for the second straight day. A three-day embargo was placed Tuesday on movement of live cattle, sheep and hogs from the area.

In Ottawa, the agriculture department set up an emergency board of control to direct efforts.

A federal order placed nine municipalities adjacent to Regina under quarantine. They extend to a radius of 35 or 40 miles.

From preliminary tests made in Saskatchewan, the disease is believed to be infectious stomatitis — a sore mouth which makes food unappetizing to the animal.

Dr. T. Childs, veterinary director-general of Canada, is in Regina to supervise investigations. Thorough studies also are being made in the federal agriculture department's animal diseases research institute in Hull, Que. Officials said complete findings are not expected until Friday at the earliest.

Health certificates approving of livestock exports will not be granted in areas where there is the least suspicion that animals may be affected by the disease.

The quarantine order prohibits [illegible] goats or any parts of these animals as well as hay, straw, fodder, cereal grain or other things used for feeding or caring for the animals.

Undertaking Is Given

PREMIER JOHNSON'S undertaking in the House yesterday that early dissolution of the 22nd Legislature will be sought from the Lieutenant-Governor, followed by a provincial general election, will do much to restore the perspective in British Columbia's political affairs. The pledge was fairly given, and is binding on all the government's supporters in the legislature. To keep within its spirit the administration should bring forward only the inescapable items of public business that must be done, discourage verbal polemics and, when supply has been voted, go to the country after a brief working session. As Premier Johnson acknowledges, the remainder government of which he is the head has no mandate for any other course.

Naturally a routine budget must be introduced for the continuation of essential services. The Dominion-Provincial tax agreement is awaiting ratification. Likewise, the loss of even one season in British Columbia's road-making program would scarcely be justified. The administration is already committed to act on the Sloan report on workmen's compensation, although this might well have waited for a better time and more considered thought. Apart from these few matters there does not appear much that is pressing. The test of all business offered in the House will be the question if it is really necessary. Everything apart from that may be construed by the voters as electioneering. It is of no importance now which side broke the Coalition or why, and that issue can well await the hustings. Its own withdrawal and a fresh mandate at the ballot box are the chief items confronting the administration.

As no legislature can function without a party in charge the Liberal Party has that position, although without voted mandate. Any attempt to use this temporary status to further party program or party ends would be instantly resented. Nor can the Liberal caucus speak for the former Coalition. So it is a stalemate, and one which only the electors can break if constitutional principles are followed. By conceding this, the Premier has taken the right stand. There is no reason why a general election cannot be called by June if the voters' list is put in hand now, as it should be. Meanwhile any attempt to prolong or to obstruct the final session by partisan debate would be futile.

An Unfair Situation

NO GREATER anomaly could exist than that any millionaire in Canada who is 70 years of age or over can, if he so wishes, draw the new automatic old-age pension without hindrance, whereas the needy war veterans' allowance (burnt-out) recipient is mulcted of part of this monthly grant if he also becomes the recipient of the national pension.

Few if any millionaires, perhaps, will bother with the old-age pension, but undoubtedly tens of thousands of individuals not in sore financial straits have applied for it and accept it as a welcome, even if superfluous, addition to their income. No tags are attached. No other income is affected. It is an extra, now granted as of right.

Why then is that right in effect withheld from war veterans whose overseas service destroyed their earning capacity and forced them to become recipients of the burnt-out allowance? This latter is and always has been subject to a means test, which in itself was proper enough when first devised. To continue to apply it and reduce the allowance simply because the veteran becomes eligible for the universal old-age pension, however, is grotesquely unfair.

The amount of the burnt-out allowance is strictly limited in any case, to a maximum of $70.83 per month. No veteran could ever grow fat on it. There is also a ceiling that squeezes the recipient so that from all sources put together he is not allowed to have an income exceeding $91.66 pr month. If he exceeds this figure his allowance is reduced to conform.

Several aspects of burnt-out allowance payments await the consideration of the House of Commons committee pledged to overhaul this grant at the next session. The incidence of the old-age pension is one of them, and one to which prompt attention should be given. The just remedy is to remove the means test from the allowance and permit the veteran to receive this untouched if, being such a recipient, his years put him in line for an old-age pension. On every score he earned them both in full long ago.

Exorbitant Cigarette Tax

BY INFERENCE from remarks made by Finance Minister Abbott in parliament last autumn and from more recent hints dropped by officials in Ottawa it seems fairly certain that the next federal budget will make some downward adjustment of the exorbitant tax on factory-rolled cigarettes. There has not been any indication of the size cut the government may have in mind, beyond reports that it is unlikely to be as big as the tobacco industry has asked. At present cigarettes are burdened with a Dominion tax of about 150 per cent of their market value. On a per packet basis the tax amounts to 25.2 cents, raising the price to consumers to 42 cents, exclusive of provincial and local sales taxes. The industry has requested that the tax be halved to allow cigarettes to retail at 30 cents, which even then would be high by comparison with prices in the United States.

What has happened to Canadian cigarette sales since the tax was raised 5 cents a packet last April is a classic example of the law of diminishing returns. In estimating that the higher tax would yield an additional $25,000,000 of revenue, Mr. Abbott failed to take public resistance to excessive taxation into the reckoning. On the basis of a 14.5 drop in sales in eight months after the new tax went into effect, it is estimated that the full year's loss of revenue to the government will approximate $30,000,000, which puts the minister $55,000,000 out in his guess.

With a $721,000,000 surplus in hand, Mr. Abbott may think that doesn't matter much; but it is a very serious matter for a Canadian industry, and worse still for Canadian standards of honesty. There is conclusive evidence that smuggling of U.S. cigarettes has reached the proportions of a major racket in some parts of the country because of the enormous profits to those engaged in it. The best way by which that traffic can be curbed effectively is by lowering taxes to a point enabling domestic cigarettes to be sold at a price which would make illicit trading unattractive for the profits and hazards involved.

HELP APPRECIATED

Sir,—May I be allowed space in your Colonist to express my gratitude to the two young ladies in the Belmont Building who so very kindly called the S.P.C.A. to fetch from there my very old (14 years) fox terrier who though very sick got out of the garden through a hole in the fence when I put him in the yard for a little exercise.

I happened to phone the S.P.C.A. to see if by any chance they had him there. Mr. Meggs their inspector brought him home. I am very grateful to him and the staff in their care of him.

The society does a wonderful amount of good work for the animals. . .

PRICE-WAGE SPIRAL

Sir,—Not a person one speaks to but is perturbed by the rapid and seemingly endless rise in prices and costs; but let anyone so much as mention the main cause of it and immediately there is an indignant howl from those who are mainly responsible for this disquieting state of affairs. It would, one would imagine, be apparent to the meanest understanding that endless and insistent demands for wage increases must boomerang in the shape of dearer prices all round.

Such being the case, no wonder a correspondent says he cannot keep up with the cost of living, and as matters stand he never will. We cannot open a newspaper without reading of labor's demands for more money, cost of living bonuses, shorter hours and other concessions, all costing money.

In a resulting strike, go slow, sit downs or walk out, who bears the brunt? The public and particularly those who have little enough to get by on at the best of times . . . There must be some amongst the various unions who cannot but ask themselves, "What shall be the end of these things?" Unfortunately it is not always the thinking and level headed who have the say. It is high time some one spoke out, resentment has been gathering in people's minds for a long while.

(MRS.) L. F. HEYWOOD.

Tudor Road, Victoria, B.C.

A KINDLY ACTION

Sir,—I have a friend in "Sunset Lodge," the accommodation which the Salvation Army provides for pensioners. She is nearly 89 years by her birth certificate, but what do birth dates matter? She is "like a tree planted by the rivers of water" (Psalm 1) and is as bright as the Christian faith within her. I addressed a valentine to her the other day and meant to buy stamps and mail the card downtown, but I lost it before mailing.

However, my friend did receive the card and was very pleased. Someone had stamped and mailed it for me. It was put through a stamp meter, so I suspect that some large downtown store did this kindness. Thank you!.

DOMINION ANNUITIES

Sir,—Would like to say that Mr. D. E. Meredith being a life underwriter, I bow to his superior knowledge of all things financial, and no doubt his statements regarding profits and loss of the government in the annuity field are quite correct. In referring to large profits, I had in mind cases of which I am cognisant, where elderly people bought immediate annuities without any guarantee as to a number of annual payments. In these times of financial uncertainties of which the gilt-edge bond market is an example, I join with many others in the hope that the elderly people have all the consideration possible, and in the hope for increase to $2,400, I see that they would have a security for their savings which no other source on this planet is offering.

"What's the big-brother routine today, Chief?"

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

IT was curiosity, not nostalgia, that impelled me to go and have a look at my former quarters at the corner of View and Broad. Curiosity born of a remark by our photographer, to wit:

"You should see what they've done to your old office!"

Well it never was mine exactly. I merely lodged there during my working day, although I'll admit the possessive instinct became so strong I deemed it my own particular sanctum and nobody else's.

And of course "they" can do as they like with it now. As they have done.

I ran up the outside steps, opened the familiar door and ran up the inside flight—all in one motion, as in the past I had done a thousand times. Then I stopped.

Something was different!

All the woodwork in the lobby was a bright emerald green. Now why on earth didn't we think of that color—one, two, five years ago? It would have pleased the colleagues I have on either side of me, Paddies both.

I took a look around. Most doors were locked so I couldn't poke closely. Where once the newsroom was there is, seemingly, a secretarial business—and I daresay order instead of chaos. Behind the door that led to the sports department there is, I read, an excavating company, turning up things quite unrelated to Mr. Tang's excavations.

The door that led through to my quondam den was also closed, but unlocked. A sign spoke of oil-paintings—art—so I entered gingerly.

I had to think twice, thrice, to realize I was in the hall where once the beard of De Cosmos greeted me of a morning. We had paintings on the walls too, but nothing like this. Every foot of space was covered with canvases depicting country scenes, boats, flowers, vases, in fact the whole gamut of the painter's realm.

My main interest lay behind a very special door, however—the one into my former office. A sound of movement from the room deterred me, so I only put my head round the door jamb, timidly. What I saw was enough.

Here also a transformation—and more pictures. In place of my calendar hung a bowl of roses. Hiding a cupboard in which I used to hide old books was a large thatched cottage, so inviting I nearly walked up its front path. Covering a blank space on the wall at which I so often gazed in search of inspiration, a barque raced before the wind, sails billowing as she clipped off the knots.

What I could not have done, mentally, with that lovely ship!

Just where I had bent to edit my scrambled copy another figure sat, brush instead of pencil in hand, before an easel. He was absorbed, creating a work of art.

That humbled me. I had not connected that room with art before, so I tiptoed away. It was no longer my room anyway. A new personality possessed it, and it spoke now of him, not me. I felt like a stranger.

So I went quietly down the stairs, out into the street, and was soon back in my own comfortable new room near the Fountain Circle. It opened its arms to me, cosy and friendly, and I felt at home once more.

Gerald Waring

Reports From Ottawa

COMPLETION of the powerful new atomic pile NRU—which will be Canada's third—will give Chalk River scientists an instrument to unlock doors now closed to them.

In a long talk the other evening with Dr. David A. Keys, head man at Chalk River, I learned that one reason they're so keen on getting this new atomic furnace into operation is that it may solve some of the problems connected with atomic power.

Both Dr. Keys and his boss, Dr. C. J. Mackenzie, president of the new Crown company named Atomic Energy of Canada Limited, predict that success in the development of practical atomic power plants is less than 10 years away. What that will mean, according to Dr. Mackenzie, is the opening of a new vista for mankind which in time will bring about changes in our way of life as profound and far-reaching as those wrought by the invention of the internal combustion engine.

The nuclear physicists of the Canadian A.E.P. are in the forefront now in both fundamental and practical research into the application of atomic energy to peaceful uses. New developments like the spending of $30,000,000 on the new NRU pile and the formation of a Crown company to take over operation of the A.E.P. from the National Research Council indicate plainly that the government is determined to keep Canada in the atomic picture.

It was only two years ago that disgruntled scientists at Chalk River were asking "Where do we go from here?" A.E.P. was at a crossroads. Facilities available to the scientists were insufficient to meet the needs of a growing research program. So either the program had to be curtailed and limited—which would have been frustrating to the scientists—or the government had to spend a lot more money.

The decision taken was to spend more money. Thus, when the new pile is finished, probably in 1954, the government will have an investment at Chalk River of about $70,000,000. Moreover, Dr. Mackenzie hinted broadly the other day that in time additional piles will be built, for as he put it, "atomic energy is merely in its infancy."

The power of NRU is still secret, but scientists admit the new pile will be much more powerful than NRX, the larger of the present two piles, which has a power output of 10,000,000 watts. By comparison, the power of the largest radio station in Canada is only 50,000 watts.

NRX, with its high neutron flux, produces isotopes with higher specific activity than does any other pile in the world. These isotopes are being put to an increasing variety of uses in industry and in medical and other scientific research, and are being exported to many countries.

NRU will turn out even more powerful isotopes, and in quantities which will make Chalk River as much a manufacturing operation as a research centre. Nevertheless, research will remain the prime reason for its existence. With NRU the scientists will be able to undertake more advanced experiments in fundamental nuclear physics which, according to Dr. Keys, "will give results of far greater value to mankind" than those possible with present facilities.

He clearly meant that this fundamental work with the new pile would point the way to the solutions of some of the many complex problems which must be overcome before we can use atomic energy to turn the wheels of industry.

The Pickwickian Way

(From The Christian Science Monitor)

NOW is the time for all good moppets to come to the aid of the Party! This is brought forcibly to our attention by a news photograph of Mr. Taft, with a small child pushed against his knee (both looking rather ill at ease) during a recent public appearance.

Well over a hundred years ago a young reporter on the London Morning Chronicle took shrewd note of the political campaigns of his day. And in "Pickwick Papers," the book he was producing by candlelight, in his brief snatches of leisure, Charles Dickens described an election at "Eatanswill." The rival parties were the "Blues" and the "Buffs."

As the Honourable Samuel Slumkey, parliamentary candidate for the Blues, paraded through the streets, his right-hand man said to him, "Nothing has been left undone, my dear Sir—nothing whatever. There are twenty washed men . . . for you to shake hands with; and six children in arms that you're to pat on the head, and inquire the age of; be particular about the children, my dear Sir,—it has always a great effect, that sort of thing. . . . And, perhaps, my dear Sir,—perhaps if you could—I don't mean to say it's indispensable—but if you could manage to kiss one of 'em, it would produce a very great impression on the crowd."

An election campaign is still an election campaign on at least two sides of the Atlantic, and long may the parents remain free to choose who shall pat their moppets on the head!

Fun, Fact and Fiction

Pentagon authorities doubt the veracity of reports that ground coffee was used to sweep floors at a United States air base, prompting Senator Soaper in The Detroit News to demand: "Does it dare deny that a floor-sweeping compound was ever used in army coffee?"

* * *

Must they go on saying that Britain had always prospered under feminine rule? Man's role in the never-ending war between the sexes is tough enough without that.

* * *

Senator Taft's recipe for an old-fashioned, writes a Washington columnist, is as follows: "One jigger bourbon, 1 dash bitters, ½ lump sugar. Crush sugar and bitters together. Add lots of ice. Decorate with twist of lemon peel, cherry, and plenty of orange and pineapple."

Shucks, senator, that isn't an old-fashioned. That's a fruit salad.

In Switzerland a female tourist was amazed at the enormous rocks in the valley where she was holidaying.

"Where on earth do they all come from?" she asked a native.

"The glacier brought them down," said the Swiss.

"But where's the glacier?" she asked.

"Gone back for more rocks," replied the Swiss.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

SNOW has many functions, the greatest of which is to demonstrate to us city and town dwellers in what filth we live.

When a snowfall clothes the world in a perfect splendor of purity there is more than beauty in it. There is a sense of holiness, a queer feeling of escape, of amnesty. With every ugly mortal forgiven our debts. We start with a clean sheet.

In the country this impression lasts a long time. As the days go by, the barnyard may become a little mucky; a trampled spot will grow around the woodpile; and where the cars and trucks stand by the side door of the farmhouse it is a mess. But over the fields and across the pastures, the glorious purity survives, week after week; and on their slopes, the woodlots purvey serenity and mystery to the eye.

But in city and town, a brief glimpse is all we are allowed of the dispensation. Within an hour, the shovels are flying, the sand and ashes are scattering, the snow-plows snorting. From the thick air, the dust and soot is being soaked up by the snow. Before the day is done, white is grey. From doors and alleys, filth is being chucked out; trash, garbage, refuse has begun to pock the margins of the paths we have made; it blows off trucks; the hands of children scatter it about; dogs help. A countryman coming into a town or city three days after a snowfall must form the impression that cities and towns are all slum.

The word slum probably comes from the Latin cella, meaning a room. Slum first appears in English as meaning a room in the sense we now use doss or flop. With cities and towns moving steadily in the direction of apartment houses, duplexes, boarding houses and ever-diminishing suburban bungalows, new-fallen snow gives us something to fret about.

Fringe Benefits

By RAYMOND MOLEY, From New York

IN the present controversy between Murray's steel union and the industry, most attention is being directed at the demand for an 18½ cents an hour pay boost. But it should not be overlooked that the so-called fringe benefits demanded by the union actually mean more than the wage increase in compensation, in the cost of production, and in inflationary dangers.

Fringe benefits include such items as payments into pension funds, life insurance, sickness care and other welfare items. Demands for these have become standard union practise ever since John L. Lewis saw the immense advantages in this sort of compensation.

The attractiveness of these benefits as items for bargaining are numerous. In the first place, they help labor leaders to escape public resentment against wage demands. At long last the public realizes that every wage increase accelerates the rate of inflation, makes it harder to meet living costs, and eats into the real value of savings. But fringe benefits have the same effect, although the public seems to be unaware of it.

Another advantage to union leaders in fringe benefits is that they do not loom up in the estimates of average annual pay. The annual value of these benefits to the employee is very difficult to fix; hence, the union leader can make a more plausible case to the public.

The Truman administration also loves these fringe benefits, because despite the payments it can still claim that it is holding the line on wages.

Finally, fringe benefits have an emotional appeal, because they represent some form of security for the old and the helpless.

Under modern economic conditions, a payment by a private employer to a private employee is no longer a purely private matter, for through definite but indirect channels the cost must be met by the general public. The meeting of this cost is as inexorable as taxation. If United States Steel must pay out a dollar in wages and benefits, its costs go up and the burden will be shifted to everyone who uses its product, and in turn to everyone who uses a product made of that product. This controversy is no private fight. It is a matter of grave public concern.

In my next column I shall present some figures indicating the cost of fringe benefits in the past two or three years.

"Whose Woods These"

Whose woods these are I think I know,
His house is in the village though;
He will not see me stopping here
To watch his woods fill up with snow.

My little horse must think it queer
To stop without a farmhouse near
Between the woods and frozen lake
The darkest evening of the year.

He gives his harness bells a shake
To ask if there is some mistake.
The only other sound's the sweep
Of easy wind and downy flake.

The woods are lovely, dark and deep,
But I have promises to keep,
And miles to go before I sleep,
And miles to go before I sleep.

Method Sought to Get Higher Grant

A more forceful way to impress Ottawa with the need for a higher yearly grant for Esquimalt will be discussed by the reeve and council and a committee from the Esquimalt Ratepayers' Association, it was decided at the ratepayers' monthly meeting last night.

"There are purchases going forward right at this time of municipal land by the Crown—more land from which we will no longer receive revenue," Gerald Sammon, president, said.

He reminded the members that "We were given a grant of $24,000 last year. That seems hardly fair when you consider the millions of dollars worth of land the government owns in Esquimalt," one member said.

LEGAL ADVICE

Sam Lane suggested that the association should urge council to obtain the finest legal advice possible to go to Ottawa to explain the situation.

"Ottawa doesn't realize the true situation. If they are going to turn Esquimalt into an armed camp, let them say so, then we will at least know where we stand," he said.

A suggestion was made from the floor that Esquimalt get together with the other Canadian cities affected by the problem, and approach the government in a body.

Saanich Doubtful On Fares Hearing

SAANICH municipality has not yet decided whether it will be represented at public hearings March 10 on the B.C. Electric Co. application for increased Greater Victoria bus fares.

A municipal official said yesterday the decision might be made at a special council session Monday.

Water Board to Retain Present Audit Firm

The Greater Victoria Water Board voted yesterday to retain its present firm of auditors after it found out that tendering was against the "code of ethics" of accounting firms.

At a previous meeting, it was decided to call for tenders for auditors of the water district accounts after Mayor Claude L. Harrison objected to paying a joint account to a Victoria and Vancouver firm.

Thomas Bailey, representing the firm of W. B. Monteith, will be retained, but the services of the Vancouver consultant will be dispensed with.

A motion by Ald. Waldo Skillings to retain the firm of Ismay, Boiston & Dunn, which audits the city's books, was defeated.

Reason given for former hiring of the Vancouver consultant was that association of a nationally-known organization gave prestige to the board when dealing on the bond markets.

Ald. Skillings argued that any guarantee given to utility companies was not by the firm of auditors but by the member municipalities of the water district.

Reeve P. A. Gibbs agreed that while the ability of the local auditors was not in question and they were as good as any nationally-known firms, it was an advantage to be associated with [illegible] organizations.

"But are auditors any different from any other profession with regard to price?" asked Ald. Robert Macmillan. "Maybe we can't call for tenders but we can shop."

When Ald. Skillings introduced the name of Ismay, Boiston and Dunn, Reeve Gibbs said the competency of the present auditors was not under question but merely their association with a Vancouver firm.

The local firm will be retained for 1952.

Order May End Oak Bay Pipe Dream

The revenuers caught up with Oak Bay municipality last night. But it wasn't moonshine they were after—it was a little matter of some cement pipe.

Council received a letter from the deputy minister of customs and excise in which he said:

"According to the figures submitted, your production of cement drain pipe for the years 1949, 1950 and 1951 were always in excess of $1,000 annually, based not on the equivalent of the selling price, but on your cost, in view of which there is no possibility of the corporation being considered as a small manufacturer.

"The excise tax auditor is accordingly being instructed to set up the necessary assessment for the tax properly exigible."

No bill has yet been received for the tax, Municipal Clerk A. D. Findlay told council.

Clr. F. A. Robinson asked that a legal definition of "small manufacturer" be obtained, and said that the letter from the customs and excise department "is discrimination against the municipality."

The matter will be put before the municipal solicitor.

Esquimalt council last year lost its battle with the same department and had to start paying tax on cement pipes manufactured there.

New Lights Favored For City

Replacement of 69 cluster light standards in the city by a new "pendant luminaire" at a total cost of $5,865, was urged by city electrical engineer Kenneth Reid yesterday.

In a report to the street lighting committee, Mr. Reid said that poor illumination given by the cluster lights was responsible for many of the downtown traffic accidents.

"I appreciate the aesthetic value of the system," he said. "But it's 40 years old and has outlived its day. I don't think any tourist comes here to look at our street lights any more than we go to another city to look at theirs."

The committee agreed to recommend the change to city council.

During discussion, Mr. Reid pointed out that at present there were 295 globes missing on the cluster light system and cost of replacement was $4.06 each. He added that at present there were no globes in stock.

He said he had studied the possibility of replacing the glass globes with plastic ones and had received a quotation of $10.20 each for that type. He added that while the price was high, the plastic globes would not be destroyed easily by weather or vandalism and would last almost indefinitely.

He said he was not suggesting removal of all cluster lights but that the new type of pendant lights provided greater illumination at far less cost.

TO BE PAID FRIDAY

All members of the 75th B.C. Heavy Anti-Aircraft Regiment, R.C.A., who have not received their pay will be paid at 8 p.m. Friday in Bay Street Armory.

Signs Planned

Motorists in Oak Bay will soon find 24 more signs erected reading "Stop When Occupied," for protection of children in school zones.

Fifteen-mile-per-hour zones will be abolished where the new signs are erected.

Last Rites Held For J. Smedley

Last rites for James Joseph Wilson Smedley, 84, who died Feb. 14, were held yesterday in Hayward's funeral chapel; Rev. William Hills officiated and interment was in Royal Oak Burial Park.

Mr. Smedley had been a resident of Victoria for 60 years. He was born in Ireland.

Surviving is one brother in Ireland.

The Ladies' Auxiliary to Burnside Branch No. 2, Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., are requested to attend the funeral of their late member, Mrs. Elizabeth Clear, on Friday, February 22, at Chapels Funeral Chapel at 1.30 p.m. Sister Auxiliary members are invited to attend.

The following is the complete version of the poem shown in our IN MEMORIUM WINDOW to His Majesty King George VI.
Written by
AGNES NICHOLSON ANDERSON

Thou God Eternal One on high
Bless Thou the sorrowing ones who cry
As mourning o'er our King's decease
Give forth to all Thy Comfort, Peace . . .

King George the VI holds greater place
At home, abroad in every race.
His duty as a gallant man
Performed forthright The MASTER'S PLAN.

Son, husband, father, King, he gave
Example, understanding, brave.
As hour by hour each day's worship
Came from above . . . His Leadership . . .
It ever kept him, though through pain
In wealth of soul, in righteous gain.
We, all his subjects, high and low
But felt that life's great overflow
Was in such discipline thus gained.
Character Thine in truth attained:—
Bear as he did endure—"Well Done."
Full tribute from THE HIGHEST won
In honour, as the martial tread
Comes to each heart "The King Is Dead"
The British Commonwealth do raise
In Memory's Voice Christ's Word of Praise.

House to Consider Four Compensation Proposals

Only four of forty recommendations for the amendment of the province's Workmen's Compensation Act will be dealt with at the current session of the B.C. Legislature.

Commissioner Chief Justice Gordon McG. Sloan's report recommending the changes, which if all are instituted, will cost B.C. employers $3,021,124 more a year, was tabled in the House yesterday. Employers now pay about $14,000,000 yearly.

Premier Byron Johnson said the four recommendations would raise the general scale of compensation, lift the wage ceiling on which claims are based, increase widow's pensions and raise children's allowances.

These proposals, if adopted, would raise the scale of compensation from 66⅔ to 70 per cent of lost wages; wage ceilings from $2,500 to $3,600 yearly (minimum compensation would be $15 a week); widows' pensions from $50 to $75 a month; and children's allowances from $12.50 to $20 a month. Orphans' allowances would go up from $20 to $30 a month and other dependents' allowances from $50 to $75 monthly.

Other recommendations, not to be dealt with at this session, include a raise in subsistence allowance from $3.50 to $4.50 a day; increase in funeral allowance from $150 to $250, and a suggestion that the W.C.B. pay hospital insurance premiums for widows and orphans.

Chief Justice Sloan recommended that these increases not be retroactive, with the exception of increased allowances to [illegible] payment of B.C.H.I.S. premiums to widows and orphans.

If the new government accepts the suggestion of the chief justice, B.C. will be the first Canadian province to bring all farm employees within the Workmen's Compensation Act.

The request of B.C. organized labor for a medical appeal board may be granted if Chief Justice Sloan's recommendation is adopted.

This board would rule on cases of claimants who are dissatisfied with decisions of the board's doctors, and would be the first of its kind in Canada.

Request of various trade unions for blanket coverage for all occupational diseases was rejected by the commissioner, but he recommended that industrial deafness be added to the schedule of compensable diseases.

He also urged that no workman be allowed to work in either a hard-rock mine or coal mine without first obtaining a medical certificate or fitness. Hard-rock miners may now work for two months without a certificate, and a coal miner requires none.

Many technical amendments to the act as it deals with silicosis were recommended.

Chief Justice Sloan noted the province's industrial growth in his 400-page report.

From 1941 to 1950, compensation assessment payroll had increased from $241,943,248 to $695,000,000; there were only 8,509 firms paying in 1941 as against 20,920 in 1950. Compensation paid, other than medical aid had jumped from $4,845,762.18 to $12,164,699.88 in the nine-year period.

Medical aid payments increased from $922,608.79 to $2,648,481.50 in the same period; claims filed from 46,496 to 71,504, and administration costs had increased from 2.48 per cent to 4.72 per cent.

Program Features House Happenings

CANADIAN listeners this week will be able to hear all about happenings in the provincial Legislature wrapped up in a neat radio package and delivered by veteran parliamentary reporter J. K. Nesbitt.

The program, called "Nesbitt Reporting," will be presented each Friday, beginning tomorrow night, at 10.15 p.m. over CBU and will deal with the week's activities in the Legislature.

Mr. Nesbitt, whose articles appear regularly in the Colonist, is a veteran of many years of legislative reporting.

Labor Delegations Present Requests

British Columbia labor is not happy about the shelving of hospital insurance and labor code amendment reports.

Delegations from the province's Trades and Labor Congress of Canada and Canadian Congress of Labor unions presented briefs to the cabinet yesterday morning, on the heels of an announcement that the B.C. H.I.S. and Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration Act would not be discussed at this session of the legislature.

George Home, secretary of the B.C. Federation of Labor (C.C.L.), and delegation spokesman said that a provincial conference of B.C.F.L. representatives will be called to plan further strategy.

NO DATE SET

He said no date has been set for the conference, but that it would be held after the unions have had a chance to study workmen's compensation recommendations and reports of legislative committees which last year studied the hospital insurance scheme and the labor code.

R. K. Gervin, leader of the provincial T.L.C. delegation said that although their meeting with the cabinet was the most amicable for some time, the T.L.C. delegates were "terribly disappointed" that labor and hospital legislation will not be brought up.

He said he was happy to see that at least some amendments to the Workmen's Compensation Act will be voted on.

T.L.C. unions, he said, will study the complete compensation act report and labor and hospital committee reports between now and the time a new government takes power, and will make further representations then.

MAIN REQUESTS

Main requests in the C.C.L. brief, besides implementation of B.C.H.I.S., I.C.A. Act and Compensation Act amendments were:

That immigration into B.C. be halted until the province can absorb them without throwing workers here on the street.

That the hospital insurance plan be based on ability to pay.

That Commissioner D. K. Penfold be removed from the Public Utilities Commission, and that a commission be established to place B.C. Electric and B.C. Telephone Companies under public ownership.

That the province keep control of B.C. forest resources, and stop granting forest management licenses.

That the government not use the transferable ballot in the forthcoming election, because many ballots would be spoiled.

The T.L.C. brief was headed by a request for the establishment of an eight-hour day and 40-hour work week under the Hours of Work Act.

Among other T.L.C. recommendations were that the Annual Holidays Act be amended to require employers to set aside an amount equal to 4 per cent of their employees' wages to provide two week's annual holiday with pay.

Farm hands and domestic workers should be brought under provisions of this act, the brief said.

A recommendation for a three-man natural resources commission with one labor member, was another request. The brief said claims had been made that B.C.'s resources were being wasted and exploited.

Youthful Mothers Admit Guilt

Two 19-year-old mothers pleaded guilty to three charges of retaining stolen property valued at more than $25 and one charge of retaining stolen property valued at less than $25 when they appeared in city police court yesterday.

Remanded to Friday for a probation report and sentence are Sylvia J. Anderson, both of 3130 Yew.

Loot recovered by city detectives at the home of the accused women covered a large table in the courtroom.

Detective William Richards said the two women had collected the clothing from more than 30 stores in Victoria.

He said more goods are still being held by police who are unable to locate the owners.

"A lot of people didn't bother to report their losses," he said.

Value of the clothing, framed pictures and other items in the courtroom totaled more than $250, police said.

Detective Richards said he observed the two women, who were pushing baby buggies, unload some of the stolen items from the vehicles in a local bicycle store and place them in shopping bags.

They were apprehended by police and further investigation led to the recovery of the goods and further charges being laid.

After their arrest last week end the women were allowed to go home until arrangements could be made to look after their children.

Apple Juice Costing Most

Other juices are approximately 12 per cent cheaper than apple juice, wholesalers report.

The lower prices are a result of a price war among Florida fruit growers, it is reported. A 20-ounce can of apple juice costs approximately 15 cents.

Meanwhile, fresh fruits and vegetables arrived in carload lots yesterday at Victoria.

In plentiful supply are navel oranges, Edmonton potatoes, Okanagan Valley apples of the Spitzenberg, Delicious and Newtown varieties, and bananas.

New potato supplies are expected again next week. Three varieties of seed potatoes are in supply.

Higher prices can be expected next week on lettuce, celery and onions due to improving market conditions of California and Mexico where the produce is grown. Retail price for lettuce is about 14 cents a pound, and for celery about 13 cents a pound.

A two-cent-a-pound advance in wholesale beef prices following earlier increases at Calgary will reflect here at about four cents per pound retail in a week, wholesalers also warned yesterday.

Active Stocks Market Guide

Montreal provided the brightest features in the active stock lists yesterday, when a number of small gains were recorded by mixed industrials and mines. Toronto stocks were almost exclusively lower while only two of New York's 10 most active stocks finished higher.

Minor Rally Merely Checks Market Slide

TORONTO, Feb. 20 (CP).—Stock market prices wavered indecisively today after checking an early decline.

Trading opened briskly but [illegible] Leading industrial issues reacted quickest to the new-found support while confidence spread slowly to other issues.

Manufacturing companies and liquors led industrials' recovery while agricultures, constructions, banks, retail stores and miscellaneous issues held gains and losses in balance. Papers, utilities, foods and refining oils weakened.

Western oils showed gains and losses in balance. Anson, Canadian Williston, Pacific Petroleum, Security Free, Trans Empire, Husky and Calnorth strengthened.

Base metals eased from early gains. Ascot, Golden Manitou, Hudson Bay, Quemont and Waite Amulet posting losses ranging to about 50 cents. Anacon Lead, East Sullivan, Labrador and Steep Rock edged upward.

Senior golds pushed higher. Secondary issues strengthened slowly.

Aluminum Weakens

MONTREAL, Feb. 20 (CP).—Selling depressed stock prices at the close of today's session.

Senior oils and papers remained lower throughout the session. Beverages, steels, senior metals, carriers and miscellaneous industrials closed easier.

Utilities mixed gains and losses, while banks drew fair support.

Aluminum dropped two points to 109½, in the wake of a three-point tumble yesterday. Asbestos Corporation fell one point to 23½, while St. Lawrence Corporation lost an equal amount at 42.

Mines followed the industrial market through its diverse trends, although movements were narrower. Bibis Yukon, Dominion Asbestos, Labrador and United Lead were lower.

Western oils weakened in the session and, for the most part, held lower. Central Explorers, Pan Western and Tor American were among losers.

Oils Above Lowest

VANCOUVER, Feb. 20.—Many western oils managed to finish above the Tuesday close, but general nervousness prevailed, and trading was not extensive.

Among oils to improve were Britalta, Calmont, Canadian Atlantic, Continental, Charter, McDougall Segur and Superior, while A. P. Con., Federated, Redwater Leaseholds and York were lower.

Strong points among the base metals were Silver Standard, Silvan and Estella, but Beaverlodge, Bibis Yukon, Giant Mascot, Pioneer and Indian declined.

Canadian Western Lumber toppled the fraction under 10.

New York Still Sells

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (AP).—Another severe selling wave swept through the stock market beating down prices along a range extending to between 3 and 4 points at the outside.

It was the second straight session in which prices toppled under the pressure of widespread selling.

The cause for the break was the same as Tuesday in general outline a deep-rooted bearishness topped by an excuse for selling.

Tuesday the generally accepted reason for the immediate fall was brighter prospects for a truce in Korea.

The volume expanded Wednesday rapidly to 1,970,000 shares, greatest since Dec. 7.

Hope for Rubbers

LONDON, Feb. 20 (Reuters).—Apart from weakness in coppers and diamonds, the market in commodity shares was steadier today.

Bear covering gave a firmer tone to tins. Rubbers firmed on hopes of a decision to allow a moderate increase in consumption of natural rubber in the United States in the second quarter.

Offerings in a market devoid of buyers brought sharp falls to coppers and diamonds.

Business in other sections of the stock exchange was small.

Active interest in British Government funds was at a low level and prices were without major change. Oils showed narrow irregularity. Shipping drooped.

South African gold shares were firm.

Tourists Set Mark In 1951

Victoria's tourist trade reached a new high in 1951 when 60,394 cars carrying 175,141 passengers came into the city, 14 per cent more than in the previous year.

These and other significant statistics on tourist industry were disclosed yesterday at the annual meeting of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau directors at the Empress.

The yearly financial statement and report showed that 1950's total influx was 53,557 cars carrying 154,000 passengers. The 1951 total was the highest number ever recorded in the city's tourist history.

NEW HEADQUARTERS

The publicity bureau's new Government Street headquarters, the report stated, handled 52,798 visitors during the year. Peak months were July and August with 14,300 and 16,789, respectively.

President Leonard Woodhouse urged Victoria business men to visit the bureau office to see what value they got for their money.

Officials praised Victoria citizens for their help in making visitors welcome to the city. Success of the tourist season was largely attributable to the untiring efforts of the city's publicity men, the report added.

It urged that while 1951 was the best year yet, competition was becoming keener for the tourist dollar.

MORE MONEY

Pressing need for continued efforts in tourist development and spending of more money in this area was urged in the report.

While the bureau last year appropriated $38,948 to finance its tourist program many other centres spent much more lavishly, it was pointed out.

The financial statement showed that the bureau operated on a total budget of $49,561 of which $27,500 came from the city of Victoria, $10,742 from subscriptions, $3,350 from the Victoria Automobile Club, $750 from Oak Bay municipality and $100 from Saanich. $7,070 carried over from the previous year.

At the end of January, 1952, the bureau had a bank balance of $11,514.

TRIBUTES PAID

During yesterday's luncheon meeting several persons, including Mayor Claude Harrison, paid glowing tributes to publicity director George I. Warren.

Dr. George Worthington of Vancouver's publicity bureau called Mr. Warren the "most outstanding visitor-industry man on the North American continent."

Elected to the 1952 board of directors were W. J. Clark, G. I. Edgelow, H. C. Holmes, J. V. Johnson, Walter S. Miles and Mr. Woodhouse. Unanimous election of Ald. James Neely, Ald. William Pinfold and Ald. J. D. Smith was also approved by the meeting.

A new 1952 president will be elected from the board by its own members.

Brock Chisholm Visiting Delhi

NEW DELHI, Feb. 20 (Reuters).—Dr. Brock Chisholm, director-general of the World Health Organization, arrived here today from Karachi on a three-day visit to Delhi in the course of a tour of Asian countries. During his stay here Dr. Chisholm will meet President Rajendra Prasad and inspect health projects in and around Delhi.

Fluke Goal Gains Tie For Wings

Next games, tonight: Boston at Montreal, Toronto at Chicago.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (CP).—A fluke long shot goal by Gordie Howe with less than two minutes left gave Detroit Red Wings a 1-1 tie tonight with New York Rangers in a hard-hitting National Hockey League game.

Howe's shot, a floater from just inside the blue line, appeared easy for goalie Emile (The Cat) Francis to handle. However, he let the puck slip through his glove.

The goal Howe's ninth in seven games and his 34th of the season was the first scored by the Red Wings on New York ice in 188 minutes and 11 seconds of hockey between the teams. The Red Wings were shut out in two previous games at Madison Suare Garden when Chuck Rayner, injured last Saturday, was in goal for the Rangers.

WINGS OUTPLAYED

New York outplayed and outshot the Red Wings and appeared headed for victory early in the third period when Ed Slowinski worked a passing play with Gaye Stewart and Don Raleigh to beat Terry Sawchuk while Ted Lindsay was serving a penalty for hooking.

Both goaltenders were superb, with the exception of Francis' lapse on Howe's goal. The Rangers tested Sawchuk 35 times while Francis had to handle 25 shots.

SUMMARY

First Period—No score. Penalties—Ranty 8.24, Lewicki 10.48.

Second Period—No score. Penalties—Kullman 2.24, Lewicki 2—11.13 and 15.00, Stewart 11.12, Pavelich 12.49, Dickenson 15.00.

Third Period—1, New York, Slowinski (Stewart, Raleigh) 2.55. 2, Detroit, Howe (Goddard) 18.13. Penalties—Lindsay 2.15, Ross 10.32—Delvecchio 2—10.32 and 18.25, Kindoll 18.25.

Army Defense Proves Tough

That Civil Service had hard time getting past Army defense is indicated by 4-1 victory for Soldiers and also by above photo which shows G-Men's Les Corby hitting ice while surrounded by four Army players. Goalie Felix Lange falls with Corby and glances anxiously into net for puck. Although he didn't score on this play Corby broke Lange's shutout later in game. Among others shown are Red Hanson, extreme left, and Ken Gill (8).—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

7-Ups Capture Commercial Puck Title; Army Trips G-Men; Wins Playoff Berth

FINAL STANDINGS:

	W	L	T	F	A	Pts
7-Ups	13	5	1	83	66	25
Merchants	11	5	3	81	49	24
Navy	9	8	1	76	58	19
Army	6	9	3	55	67	15
Civil Service	6	11	1	57	67	13
Individuals	5	11	2	47	77	12

Next games, Wednesday: 7-Ups vs. Navy; Merchants vs. Army.

Ab Ellis, Merchants' classy netminder, who won the Commercial Hockey League goals-against average hands down, saw the red light blink three times at the Memorial Arena last night, but those three goals were the most important of the season for Navy—and also for Ellis and his mates—as it gave the Sailors a 3-0 victory over Merchants.

Previously in the evening, 7-Ups had run wild over Victoria Individuals to the tune of 7-2 and had jumped into first place over Merchants. That left it up to the Navy squad to preserve the league title for 7-Ups with a win over Merchants, and the Tars didn't let the Bottlers down as they outhustled, outchecked and generally outplayed an off-color Merchants squad.

When the smoke had cleared after the final games of the league schedule, 7-Ups were in the first rung, with Merchants a mere point behind. Navy was solidly entrenched in third position and Army grabbed the final playoff spot with a 4-1 win over Civil Service.

PLAYOFFS SET

Playoffs commence next Wednesday night with the 7-Ups tangling with Navy and Merchants meeting Army. Both series will be best-of-five games.

Army came up with its best performance in weeks in stopping the Servants, continually keeping the losers off balance with rugged checking backed by the fine play of Felix Lange in the nets.

Paced by the three-goal effort of Stu Vary—easily the best man on the ice—the Soldiers held a 1-0 lead at the end of the second frame and broke the contest wide open in the last stanza as Vary found the range for three goals.

Army's persistent back-checking worried the Servants and as a result they became disorganized in the final period. Les Corby broke Lange's shut-out at the 13-minute mark of the third frame when he faked Lange out of the nets and pushed the puck behind the prostrate goalie.

Merchants sorely missed the services of Ken Gunter and Rod Jensen, both on the shelf with injuries, but the Navy crew was full value for the win and it is doubtful that the presence of these two players would have made any difference in the final outcome.

Both teams played it close to the vest in the first period with few good shots on goal. However, the Tars attack started to click in the second period, but some sensational netminding by Ellis kept all but Riches off the score sheet.

The goal-hungry Tars continued to swarm all around Ellis and put the issue beyond doubt on markers by Coulter and Brown in the final period.

7-Ups had little trouble with the Individuals who have been easy pickings for the Battlers in previous encounters. Cleaners jumped into an early lead on a goal by Delaney, but 7-Ups held a 2-1 margin at the end of the first frame.

Eddie Varga, who won the league scoring crown for the third straight year, picked up the first two of his three goals in the second period and 7-Ups were ahead 5-1 going into the last stanza.

Individuals picked up a bit in the final period, but the best they could do was a singleton by Fowler, just 40 seconds before the end of the game.

Chamberlain Receives Time "To Cool Off a Bit Longer"

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (AP)—President Maurice Podoloff of the American Hockey League said today the suspension of Coach Erwin (Murph) Chamberlain of Buffalo Bisons would be "continued indefinitely."

Chamberlain was suspended Monday by Podoloff after an incident at Cleveland—his third offense in a little over a month.

"I don't think he is ready to be reinstated," Podoloff said after meeting with Chamberlain. "I think he will have to cool off a bit longer."

Podoloff said Chamberlain protested a decision at Cleveland by referee Walton Russell, and banged his hockey stick against the boards at the Buffalo bench.

"When he was ejected from the game he refused to leave."

Recently in Buffalo, Podoloff said, Chamberlain threw a puck at Russell and before that registered displeasure at a decision in Syracuse by throwing a hockey stick on the ice.

In Buffalo today, Art Chapman, general manager of the Bisons, said he would continue as acting coach himself.

Royals Swamp Ironmen, 11-0, to Erase Cougar Marks; Quakers Nip Tacoma

Calgary	56	17	31	8	242	239	42
VICTORIA	55	16	32	7	187	242	39

Next game, tonight: Edmonton at Calgary.

Bouncing back after two straight setbacks at the hands of Vancouver Canucks, New Westminster Royals set two new P.C.H.L. records last night when they swamped Seattle Ironmen, 11-0, at New Westminster.

Both records were previously made at the expense of Victoria and the Cougars were doubtless happy to see their names erased in each instance. The one-sided affair was the highest-scoring shutout in league history and the 11 Royal goals were the most consecutive goals scored by one team in one game.

The previous high in both instances was set Dec. 10, 1949, when Tacoma Rockets downed the Cougars, 9-0.

Victory by the shorthanded Royals protected their seven-point lead at the top of the standings as Saskatoon's second-place Quakers edged out Tacoma, 5-4, at Saskatoon in the other game.

ONLY TWO LINES

Minus Ollie Dorohoy, Ken Ullyot, Blinky Boyce and Don Slater, all regular forwards, the Royals used only two forward lines to measure the lack-lustre Ironmen.

Led by the Guyle Fielder, Gordie Fashoway, Bob Paul line, the Royals started at 43 seconds and built up a 5-0 lead in the first 20 minutes. They had a little trouble from there, goalie Lucien Dechene having a comparatively quiet time in registering his fourth shutout, tying him for the league lead with Saskatoon's Lorne Worsley.

Fashoway and Fielder led the way with two goals and four assists each while Paul scored twice and passed for two goals to make it a 16-point night for the league's top-scoring combination, which now has 90 goals and 96 assists in 55 games. Fashoway's two goals ran his season's total to 43, only 10 short of the record held by Tacoma's Doug Adam, and his six points moved him into second place in the league scoring race with 71 points, only one less than Calgary's George Agar.

Veteran Aime Dufault picked up three goals for the night's only hat-trick and also had an assist.

Quakers and Rockets engaged in one of the best games in Saskatoon this season with the Quakers extending their second-place lead over Tacoma to six points.

The goals were divided among nine players with Saskatoon coach Doug Bentley high point man with a goal and two assists. Bentley's goal turned out to be the winner with the Rockets coming close with two third-period goals to cut down on a 5-2 deficit.

Golden Gloves Attracts Entry List Totaling 32

A total of 32 prospective champions will weigh in Saturday at 2.30 p.m. for the annual Vancouver Island Golden Gloves tournament at Bay Street Armory that evening.

Officials of the Vancouver Island Amateur Boxing Association last night released the entry list showing the Esquimalt Boxing Club and Army with the largest representation. Esquimalt has entered fighters in seven divisions while the Army has six entries. Alberni and Navy each have five entries, Police Club, four; St. Louis College, three, and James Bay Boxing Club, two.

The entries are much heavier than in previous years. Nineteen of the entries are in the higher weight division with light-heavyweights and lightweights attracting five entries each. Three each are entered in the heavyweight, middleweight and welterweight divisions. The 112-pound division is the most popular among the lighter weights with four entries.

Feature of the tournament is expected to be a long-awaited meeting between former Golden Boy Sammy May of Alberni and Bert Wilkinson of the Esquimalt Boxing Club. Both are entered in the middleweight division along with Hugie Delorme of Army.

Ross Durkin, secretary-treasurer of the B.C. Amateur Boxing Association and Syd Greenwood of the A.A.U. of Canada, will attend the card which opens at 8 p.m. Saturday. Tickets are on sale at Eaton's and 1320 Douglas Street.

Complete list of entries by clubs follow:

Alberni—Everett Biggs, heavyweight; Robert Bonner, 139 pounds; Don Thompson, 135 lbs.; Bernard Hamilton, 112 lbs.; Sammy May, 160 pounds.

St. Louis College—Ernie Calixedes, 178 lbs.; J. Delaney, heavyweight; Phil Paul, 135 lbs.

Army—B. Spencer, 147 lbs.; Mike Hagard, 118 lbs.; Hugie Delorme, 160 lbs.; Gene Perron, 139 lbs.; Edgar Gammon, 147 lbs.; Glen Tone, 178 lbs.

Police Club—Earl Vance, 126 lbs.; John Woods, 95 lbs.; Ronnie Joe, 147 lbs.; A. Glover, 178 lbs.

Navy—M. Simpson, 178 lbs.; Romeo Rion, 178 lbs.; William Campbell, 139 lbs.; Frank Deegan, 126 lbs.; David Martin, 178 lbs.

Esquimalt—Terry McVeigh, 178 lbs.; Bert Wilkinson, 160 lbs.; Freddie Curtis, 118 lbs.; Bob Thompson, 109 lbs.; Paul Calvey, 112 lbs.; Dave Bruce, 100 lbs.; Terry Haslam, 86 lbs.

James Bay—Lloyd Tahmont, 112 lbs.; Jerry Glanston, 100 lbs.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

When Rocky Marciano flattened Joe Louis a few months ago, it seemed such an impressive win that the Brocton block-buster was immediately conceded to be a future heavyweight champion and not soley because he is controlled by Al Weill, matchmaker for the International Boxing Club, which has virtual control over professional boxing. Apparently, however, there are dissenting views on Marciano's ring ability.

One of these belong to Dan Parker, veteran and acidulous New York sports columnist, who spared few words after watching Marciano fail to impress against the ancient Lee Savold last week.

"Once more, Al Weill, mental giant of the boxing racket (if you use a microscope) has outsmarted himself. Unable to resist the temptation of 'sucker money' he steered Rocky Marciano, his heavyweight contender, into a meaningless match with washed-up Lee Savold . . . and succeeded in destroying the carefully-nurtured illusion that Rocky is the greatest thing in fighting trunks since Joe Louis.

". . . Marciano not only revealed himself as the crudest of maulers but gave no evidence of being the deadly puncher he has been touted to be. On this occasion, at any rate, his blockbuster was a blunderbuss. He carried the fight every inch of the way but his clumsiness was appalling. What Marciano is, and...considering his age, can never be anything else but now is the crudest slugger in modern ring history. He will always be a threat to anyone from the champion down but for the I.B.C. to give him priority over the rest of the field for a title bout is gall of a nature that only the I.B.C. would dare flaunt in the public's face.

"Will Marciano be sidetracked? That, of course, is a silly question. The ballyhoo department is already on the job, describing Wednesday night's sordid affair as a great victory for him. Besides, I hear from a chap who claims Rocky told him with his own lips that articles have been signed for a Walcott-Marciano title bout next summer. Having observed how Marciano fared against a handcuffed veteran, I can see why Jersey Joe would prefer Rocky to Ezzard Charles. The Ez would probably knock out the champ in a return bout. Despite Joe's age, he would probably make a monkey out of Marciano while outpointing him, if he didn't flatten him. Since the cynical I.B.C. doesn't pay any attention to past performances, where its favorites are concerned, Rocky's standing, except with the public, remains unchanged.

Still rankling over a 3 and 2 defeat at the hands of Babe Didrikson Zaharias last summer during a match between a team of American women pros and British male amateurs—won, incidentally, by the ladies—Leonard Crawley declared recently in the London Daily Telegraph: "A team of first-class amateurs could, on one of the big seaside courses and from the back tees, give the women professionals five strokes and beat them." That got an instant response from Brig.-Gen. A. C. Critchley, who bet Crawley £500 that he can't raise a team of British amateurs to beat American girl pros with handicaps of five strokes. The odds are with the general . . . the W.I.L. schedule as released has been found to be full of errors and corrections would have to be made. At least three Victoria home games, including a Labor Day doubleheader, haven't been included. . . . Bob Brown, the veteran general manager of Vancouver Capilanos, is hardly consistent. Brown hailed the signing of Dick Barrett as Victoria manager at the time, saying it was a "great" thing for Victoria. During the recent "save baseball" fund drive, he told a Victoria club director that all the trouble could have been avoided if someone had taken the bother to ask him. Then again, during the trouble with Edo Vanni, Brown made no secret of his feelings that Vanni should not be allowed to play in the W.I.L. Now, Brown has enthusiastically announced Vanni's signing for the 1952 campaign. . . . Bernie Anderson, who showed a lot of promise in the Alberta semi-pro league, won't be with the A's this season. The Victoria youngster has been signed by St. Louis Browns and will report to the Stockton training camp later this spring. . . . Further on the baseball front, shortstop Jim Clark has verbally agreed to terms and will be with the A's unless he runs afoul of an impending Army call, outfielder Gene Thompson is reported planning to join the Los Angeles police force in June and may quit professional baseball, and southpaw Jim Hedgecock, traded to Austin for third-baseman Alan Lawrence, is balking at reporting. Hedgecock is threatening to hang them up if he isn't traded to another team and may yet wind up in Vancouver with Bob Brown reportedly seeking the servicese of his former ace pitcher. . . . Hugh Currie has a 12 won, five lost and two tied record as coach of Vancouver Canucks and no one seems to know just why. Eilers Near Coast Final

VANCOUVER, Feb. 20 (CP)—Vancouver Eilers tonight moved within a game of capturing the Lower Mainland senior A men's basketball title by trouncing Vancouver Clover Leafs, 66-55.

Eilers lead the best-of-seven series three games to one. The fifth and possibly deciding game will be played Saturday night.

Clover Leafs' Jeff Craig was high scorer of the night with 18 points. Nev Munro led the winners with 14.

Victoria High School Golds took undisputed possession of first place in the Senior Girls' Inter-High School Basketball League by trouncing Mount View Greens, 34-14, yesterday afternoon.

Mount Douglas made its first appearance in the new loop a victorious one by breathing past Esquimalt, 15-12.

Continuing to benefit from their commercial league training, Victoria High Golds had no trouble disposing of Mount View to rack up their second straight triumph.

The Golds drew away after a slow start to lead 22-8 at the half-time breather. Rangy Chris Boyd and Patty Wright led all scorers with 10 points apiece.

The Victoria High Blacks-Oak Bay match was postponed until a later date while Mount View Golds received a bye.

Line-ups follow:

V.H.S. Golds—Chris Boyd 10, Patty Wright 10, Gerry Koski 6, Bev Knight 2, Pat Blair 2, Terry Bombardier 4, Marge Smythe, Ann Sprinkling. Total 34.

Mt. View Greens—Ann Bowman 2, Pia Bowman 2, Ruth Walton, Marge Lawson 2, Rose Smith, Gloria Hodgson 2, Joan Keller, Mary Fletcher 6. Total 14.

Esquimalt—Joan Wright 4, Karen Fraser, Jean Saunders, Bev Ross 4, Ann Jones, Gloria Moisio, Doreen Robertson, Bev Bowness 2, Pat Lisle 2, Ruth Erickson. Total 12.

Mt. Douglas—Marie Johnson 3, Margaret Bowness, May Wong 2, Joan Sutherland, Joyce Johnson 7, Verna Hearn 3, Bev Hearn 1. Total 15.

Chemainus Trips Arrows; Gasmen Advance to Final

"Sonny" Cochrane paced Chemainus Community Centre to a 51-44 victory over Arrow Furniture in the first game of a two-game total-point series for the Lower Island senior "B" men's basketball championship at Victoria High School last night.

The tubby forward paced his teammates with 20 points, 13 of them in the first quarter when Chemainus took a commanding 20-6 lead.

Things looked bad for the Victoria champions after the first quarter but they rallied in the remaining periods and had the up-Island squad on the ropes at the end. Chemainus led, 34-25, at the half, 43-31 at the three-quarter mark, and was outscored 13-8 in the final quarter.

ACCURATE SHOT

Easily the outstanding player, Cochrane showed remarkable skill with long shots. He wasn't as potent in the second half as the hard-checking Arrows were successful in preventing him from getting set and limited him to just one field goal and a foul shot.

Ralph Anderson was the big gun for the losers with 15 points.

Verne Ferguson, brother of Arnie Ferguson and director of athletics at the Centre, was a bulwark on defense for Chemainus.

Ferguson was the only player to leave with five fouls but referee Bob Webster elected Ron Castner with 15 seconds remaining for some remark concerning the refereeing.

Scott & Wright moved into the final for the Lower Island junior boys' championship by edging Lake Cowichan, 30-29. The Gasmen took the two-game total-point series, 85-52, and will now meet Sooke in the final.

Scott & Wright led 16-12 at the half and built the margin up to 25-16 at the three-quarter mark. They were outscored 13-5 in the last period.

Line-ups follow:

Lake Cowichan—Saywell 11, Irving 8, Peterson 7, Payne 2, Carpenter 5, Clarkson, Gallie, Kelly, Johnson. Total 29.

Scott & Wright—Cornett 9, M. Creighton, Hawes 2, McCreadie 2, C. Creighton 6, Partridge 8, Paynter 2, Little 2, Gillam 1. Total 30.

Chemainus—Ferguson 9, Gibbons 7, Cochrane 20, Copp 2, Burkovich, Chanler 6, Patrick, Patterson 3, Allen 6. Total 51.

Arrow—Furniture—McCaghey 4, Prior, Browning 7, Tuohy 3, Davidson, Anderson 15, J. Banano 2, Castner 7, Ireland 4, Stewart 2. Total 44.

Hendry Named President At Colwood

Alex Hendry was elected president of the Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club during its annual meeting, attended by 70 members, last night.

George (Porky) Andrews was named club captain. Directors chosen were Andrews, W. Cotton, R. Ditchburn, Hendry, J. A. Pollard, G. A. R. Stelck, W. Yardley and Mrs. V. Painter.

A. Blair Paterson, retiring president, was presented with an honorary life membership.

The members were told at the meeting that the club had a successful year during the 1951 season.

Totems, Vikings to Clash For Hoop Lead Tomorrow

By IAN GLENDAY

First place in the Inter-scholastic Basketball League will be at stake tomorrow night when Victoria High Totems meet the powerful Victoria College quintet at the Fernwood gym.

Both clubs are undefeated—Vikings winning their first two starts against Normal School and Royal Roads while Totems boast a victory over Royal Roads in their only start. A Viking win tomorrow will give the Collegians the title for the second straight year. They won the crown last year with a thrilling one-point victory over Totems in the last game of the schedule.

Totems, fresh from their triumph over Esquimalt last Saturday, would like nothing better than a win over Doc Miller's highly touted Vikings and tomorrow's battle should prove interesting. However, the College crew will prove no push-over as it can boast such tested players as Bill Garner and George Woollett in the starting line-up.

Totems' B squad will tangle with the Pedigogs, Victoria's all-teacher team, in the middle game slated for 8 p.m. The Pedigogs, who dropped a previous decision to the Totems A quintet, will be out for revenge and feel certain that they can match the youthful aggressiveness of their opponents with their court savvy and ball-handling ability.

In the curtain-raiser at 7 Victoria High clashes with Esquimalt High in Senior Girls' Inter-High School League play. Feature game will get under way at 9.00.

Braves Tie Up With Phillies

KENNEWICK, Wash., Feb. 20 (AP)—The Tri-City Braves of the Western International Baseball League announced today the signing of a working agreement with Philadelphia of the National League.

General manager Dick Richards of the Braves said the Phils had assigned three players to the local team, which last year had a similar agreement with the St. Louis Cardinals.

The assigned players include George Camp, first baseman from Washington State College, and shortstop Ray Coley from the University of Oregon. Both are rookies.

Island Final Set at Sooke

McMorrans of the Saanich and Suburban Basketball League will meet Cumberland City Merchants in the first game of a two-game total-point series for the Vancouver Island intermediate "B" boys basketball championship at the Sooke Community Hall, tonight at 8.30.

Two exhibition games between Sooke and Saanichton teams will make up the remainder of the three-game card.

Senior C men will meet in the feature at 9.30 p.m., while junior boys clash in the opener at 7.30 p.m.

FAN FARE By Walt Ditzen

Currie Scared By City Medics

VANCOUVER, Feb. 20 (CP)—Hugh Currie will lead his Vancouver Canucks from the bench Friday night against Tacoma Rockets.

Doctors have advised the Vancouver coach his right leg needs all the rest it can get. Currie is suffering from torn ligaments just below the right knee. He played for only a couple of minutes in Victoria last night, and said the leg gave him a lot of pain.

"A couple of doctors over there wanted to put on a cast for three weeks," Currie said tonight. "I think they were Victoria fans. I got out of there quick."

Application Increase Results From Rumor of V.L.A. Folding

Because somebody started a rumor a month ago Applications for Veterans' Land Act assistance have increased by 50 percent all over the Victoria district and yesterday.

The rumor was spread that the V.L.A. planning office had closed and ceased business.

There is absolutely no truth in the rumor, V.L.A. officials stated yesterday.

But one of the first questions asked by applicants for assistance is, "Is it true that the V.L.A. is folding up?"

Applicants mostly have the impression that they must hurry and get their applications in, and this has caused the astonishing increase over the last six months, officials stated.

Applications are coming speedily from the rest of Vancouver Island according to the Victoria office.

High points at present are Duncan and Campbell River, where applications for settlement on small holdings are above most other centres. Alberni is currently quietest on the V.L.A. map.

WHERE IN THE WORLD

DID A HEADLESS HEN LIVE 17 DAYS?

In November, 1904, Herbert Hughes, of Sault Ste. Marie Mich., was killing chickens for his Sunday dinner. Giving a few to his kitchen maid to clean, the girl suddenly dropped one of the hens and rushed from the house in terror. A black Minorca hen had refused to die and was walking slowly around the room with no head—seemingly totally unaware of the catastrophe which had befallen her! Hughes fed the freak for 17 days by syringe. Walking about as contented as any normal hen, the bird appeared to suffer no pain and might well have remained alive longer had it not been that an attendant allowed the severed neck to heal over the end of the windpipe and suffocate her.—

Gonzales Beach Wall Would Be Expensive

A concrete retaining wall along the property line at Gonzales Beach would cost the city "thousands of dollars," city engineer Cyril Jones has estimated.

Mr. Jones made the observation following a letter from J. W. Firman and R. J. Porter, 1800 block of Crescent, complaining of damage to their property from storm-tossed logs. The heavy logs, they said, were battering the shoreline and causing erosion. Privately erected wooden walls were not sufficiently strong, they said.

The matter was referred by the public works committee to city solicitor Arthur Patton for a report.

Labor Scores Vote System

Use of the single transferable vote is condemned by Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council (A.F.L.-T.L.C.).

The system would cause a party line vote and not allow a voter to ballot in favor of a man instead of the party, said legislative committee chairman Harold Thayer as he presented a recommendation against the proposed new system.

Council unanimously accepted the recommendation.

Oak Bay Gets School Budget

Oak Bay council last night received notice of the estimated expenditure for the municipality's share of the costs for School District 61.

Oak Bay must raise $313,195 by local assessment, against a total estimated cost of $2,086,336.

"This is one item that gives me a pain every year," said Reeve P. A. Gibbs. "But it looks as if the school board has made a thorough effort to hold costs down this year."

B.C. Market Wine Flood Held Likely

California wineries might dump their surplus at reduced prices on this province, if permitted sales in B.C., claims the B.C. Federation of Agriculture.

Publicity apparently has been instigated by a pressure group of California wineries over the B.C. Liquor Control Board policy preventing American tourists from buying their own wine when visiting the province, the federation says in a statement given yesterday.

California is facing the double problem of a bumper crop of Thompson seedless grapes coupled with a considerable drop in U.S. domestic wine consumption.

The U.S. grower now receives $25 a ton compared to $20 a ton last year, the federation adds. The U.S. government, however, is offering an export subsidy of $55 a ton for grapes going to the raisin market.

REAL REASON

"It would therefore appear that the real reason for their wine campaign is to make available a new market in B.C. to dump their surplus at a reduced price," the federation claims.

Growers in the province supplying the home market must be protected. "To not do so is a short-sighted viewpoint because of their economic loss and their turning to other agricultural pursuits, perhaps creating surpluses," the statement added.

The federation points out that B.C. tourists in California also are unable to purchase their own wines in that state.

Mechanics Get 20-Cent Boost

Automotive Workers' Union (A.F.L.-T.L.C.) in Victoria has accepted a 20-cent-an-hour increase for journeymen mechanics and an average 18 cents an hour for other trades.

The wage increase includes a cost-of-living bonus already being paid. A new bonus system will begin from the index figure of 191, a union spokesman said.

The union settled for the relatively low figure after seriously considering effects upon the motoring public if a higher wage increase had been sought, the spokesman added.

Ship Contract Information To Be Sought

Information on a ship contract awarded a Victoria yard will be sought by the Boilermakers' Union and the T.L.C. labor council.

The job was awarded Yarrows Ltd. last year and moved to Vancouver for hull construction. It was to be returned to Victoria for completion, Boilermakers' delegate John Martin said.

Council supported his motion that the company be asked for information and a statement whether any of the work would be returned from Vancouver.

Martin also reported that his union has established a committee to prepare requests for a new agreement to be sought later this year.

S. Finlay Wins Speech Contest

Steve Finlay was winner of last night's annual speech contest of Camosun Toastmasters Club. His five-minute speech was on "Public Enemy No. 1," the story of cancer.

Second-place winner was Harold Price, and third was Tom Wilson. Ten speakers entered the contest.

Money Down Rat-Hole, Social Crediter Says

SOOKE, Feb. 20. — W. N. Chant, Social Credit nominee for Esquimalt in the forthcoming provincial election, and a former minister of agriculture in Alberta, addressed 60 people in Sooke Community Hall Tuesday night.

Mr. Chant told his audience that they must keep an unprejudiced mind, for that is the only way to learn. He said "the solution to our problems is right under our noses. We need not go to foreign parts for it."

Outlining his party's stand, Mr. Chant made it clear that Social Credit opposes Communism.

He asked his listeners if they felt they, as individuals, were benefiting by the great tax load upon each person. In Alberta 4 per cent of the cost of a gallon of gas goes to the municipalities, he said.

Speaking at great length, he read reams of statistics and vigorously claimed that some of the present B.C. legislatures are pouring money down a "rat-hole."

A woman in the audience asked if it were true that the present government sold lots in the Kitimat area for 50 cents an acre. Mr. Chant reminded her that the details were not made public.

"We have a government here that does not care very much about the individual persons. What is wrong with an economy that is making slaves of us?" Social Credit intends to make the right use of monetization. It's as simple as two and two make four," he continued, and urged support of his party.

D. W. Williams, president of Esquimalt Social Crediters spoke briefly and signed a number of new members to his group.

Fred Pickerl was chairman.

Uncle Wiggily Story - - -

By Howard Garis

CLARENCE HEARS VOICES

While Clarence the boy fox was waiting for Young Bobbie the bob cat to come back with a white party collar, Clarence heard voices. The voices sounded from back of a big rock near which Clarence was standing.

"Hi, Clarence!" whispered one voice.

"Hi!" Clarence answered in a low voice. "Who are you and are you coming to Uncle Wiggily's snow house party?"

"No, Clarence," said another voice, "we were not invited to the snow house party. But you should be there now trying to find a way to trap that rabbit for us. Why aren't you going to the party?"

"Yes, Clarence," whispered the first voice again. "Why aren't you at the party?"

"Say, who are you, anyhow?" asked Clarence as he watched Young Bobbie the bob cat farther along the path. "Who are you?"

"We are your mother and daddy, Clarence," answered the first voice. "We are going to slink around the snow house. Maybe you will find a way to get Uncle Wiggily outside so we can grab him."

"I will try, daddy," whispered Clarence.

"Then why don't you skip along? Why are you dawdling here in the woods?" whispered Mr. Fox.

"I am waiting for Young Bobbie the bob cat to bring me back a white collar," Clarence answered. "He said I couldn't go to Uncle Wiggily's snow house party in just an old sweater. I must wear a white collar."

"Well, maybe Young Bobbie is right," said Mr. Fox back of the rock. "You wear the white collar, Clarence, and look stylish. Now don't tell Bobbie about us. He is coming back. We'll slink away."

"But we will be waiting outside the snow house," whispered Mrs. Fox. "If you can get Uncle Wiggily to come out maybe we can catch him."

"I will try to play a trick on Uncle Wiggily," said Clarence in a low voice. "Now hide yourselves, daddy and mother. Here comes Bobbie and he has a white collar for me."

Mr. and Mrs. Fox hid in a hole in the ground behind the big rock. Clarence, putting a friendly smile on his face, waited for Bobbie the young bob cat. It was all right for Clarence to have a smile on his face. He should also have had a smile in his heart for Uncle Wiggily. But that wasn't the way of Clarence the fox.

"Here is your white collar, Clarence," said young Bobbie as he came back to the fox boy.

"Where did you get it?" asked Clarence.

"I tore off some white bark from a birch tree," answered Bobbie. "It will make a very nice white collar for your old sweater."

"Yes, it will," agreed Clarence. "But how am I going to fasten it on?" he asked as he took the collar from Bobbie. It was really shaped like a big, white collar, the sort that the boys at Eton College in England wear, and very stylish it was. "It's fine collar," said Clarence. "But how can I fasten it on?"

"I brought you some pins," said Bobbie.

"Don't tell me you found a pin tree here in the woods," said Clarence.

"No, I didn't find a pin tree," said Bobbie. "Though there are pin oak trees here in the woods."

"Why do they call these trees pin oaks if they don't have pins on them?" Clarence wanted to know.

"Uncle Wiggily told me," said Bobbie, "that the pin oak trees got that name because there are small, dead branches sticking into the trunks of those oak trees and they look like pins. But I brought you some thorns from a thorn bush. They are really like pins and with them I can fasten this white birch bark collar on you."

"Are the thorn pins sharp?" asked Clarence.

"Yes, they are very sharp," answered Bobbie. "Now stand still while I pin this collar on you and I won't stick you."

"I'll stand still," promised Clarence. So Bobbie began to fasten the white birch bark collar on the tricky fox. Then, all of a sudden, Bobbie stopped and whispered:

"Listen! I hear voices! Whose are they?"

Clarence also heard voices. They were the voices of his father and mother behind the big rock.

What is going to happen? You shall hear tomorrow, if the radio and television don't both talk at the same time and make the clock stop ticking.

Culbertson on Bridge - - -

(Copyright 1952, by Ely Culbertson)

In yesterday's column, this writer pointed the finger at doubles of high contracts reached voluntarily by competent players, and observed that such doubles rarely pan out.

In yesterday's deal, the doubler had two aces against the slam bid, and saw the redoubling declarer take all 13 tricks. In the following case (by way of tremendous contrast) West had scarcely "anything" when he doubled three no-trump—and collected 500 points!

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ 9 8 7
♥ 3 2
♦ A K 10 8 5 2

WEST
♠ Q 10 6 4
♥ K 10 8
♦ 7
♣ Q J 10 9 5

EAST
♥ J 7 6 5
♦ Q J 4 3
♣ K 7 3

SOUTH
♠ A K J 5
♥ A Q 9 4
♦ 9 6
♣ A 8 4

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♦	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
2 N.T.	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
3 N.T.	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

West made his natural lead, the club queen, and South had to play pretty well to win seven tricks!

It goes without saying that West "had his nerve with him" to double three no-trump—as far as his hand was concerned, the enemy might make a slam! Yet, on the bidding, the double was not nearly as risky as it looked. North, after showing the values for a two-overcome response, had backed away from a game contract in no-trump. He had not only refused to bid two no-trump, himself, when South showed both majors, but had decoined to raise South's two no-trump venture to game. Thus, it was almost sure that North could not redouble if West doubled, and as for South—the three no-trump bid must have been speculative, because if South had had the hand for it he would have jumped to three no-trump over two diamonds, without giving North the chance to pass at two hearts. In short, West's "ear for the bidding" was more trustworthy than a straight appraisal of his own holding could be.

Outlook Bright For New Shell

OTTAWA, Feb. 20 (CP)—Quantity production of Canada's spectacular and powerful new Sabot anti-tank shell for three countries may be near at hand.

It is the shell agreed upon as a standard military item by the United States, the United Kingdom and Canada last year, a development hailed as a sign that Canada can produce arms her allies will use.

The shell is said to be unsurpassed in its ability to penetrate armor. Meanwhile the army and today samples of the shell, developed by the Defense Research Board, have been sent to Korea for use against the Reds.

Nobody here seems to know what happened.

The chances are they have not been used there because the enemy hasn't been using tanks against which they can be used.

ENCOURAGING SIGN

LONDON (CP)—While erecting an advertising sign on a moving picture theatre here a workman fell 20 feet, suffering multiple injuries. The sign was to advertise the picture, "Something to Live For."

"The Old Soft Shoe"

There is a radio beside my bed, & every morning I reach out & fumble on the dial, sumphin' like a person gropes for the alarm. On comes the music and the fellow starts telling me how much more time I've got, then he plays another record, then he tells me the time again, and I usually have a mental argument with him, but he always wins, and I eventually kick the covers off, & go stare out the window to see if the ocean's still there.

This morning however . . . the whole routine suddenly changed . . . just WHY . . . I do not know? Maybe it was because of that Charleston music . . . anyhoo I leaped outa bed, grabbed the G.F.'s perky little red velvet hat that was on her dressing-table, stuck it over one eye, and then I went into the Charleston. I was flinging my arms about and kicking out my heels, and knocking the wind out of myself, when I noticed "her" sitting up, resting on her elbows, half awake, and smiling a little critically. Then the fellow told me the time again, and then he put on that "Soft Shoe" Record . . . so I toed my feet into my slippers, and (slowly) —"Toe-te-toe . . . te-toe-te-toe-te-toe, etc" . . . and pushing the little red velvet farther forward I shuffled in to it, just like I remembered on the old Pantages circuit. She just couldn't stand it any longer, so she, too, arose, slipped into her chenille, retrieved her slippers from under the bed, grabbed last summer's straw from the top shelf, and (slowly now) "Toe-te-toe . . . te . . . toe, te, toe, te, toe" and walked past me in a provocative sort-of-way. I gave a little jump, and swirled about, and as we passed, I whispered "lookit that baldy out in the second row . . . he's sat thru the show three times . . . can't take his eyes off you" . . . she just smiled, nearly tripped on the chenille, and we soft-shoed past one another once more. I could see her in the mirror throwing all her beautiful teeth at the customers, so to attract a little attention to myself I yelled "Joe . . . gimme the spot" then smiled at the audience, as bathed in the Kleig. I went into my best routine. Then the record stopped and the fellow said If you ever expected to get down to the office . . . this was it, Buster. Our daughters came running in, wondering what in the dickens I was shouting to Joe about, and seeing us both outa breath and hanging on to the curtains, they listened while the gal with the big smile told them that their daddy had just hit on a new way of getting her outa bed, which accounted for the silly way I looked with her perky little red velvet still drooped over my right eye.

Victoria Praised As Heavenly Spot

The "little bit of heaven" which Irishmen lyrically proclaim for their Emerald Isle, is also applicable to Victoria, according to Arthur P. Lait, passenger traffic manager of the Canadian National Railways.

In an address yesterday to the members of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau, Mr. Lait said:

"I have recently followed the birds to Victoria and I came to the conclusion that God in his infinite wisdom in creating the world, deliberately moulded with loving care, several exceptionally choice areas as special rewards . . . Vancouver Island is to be sure, one of the most choice rewards."

The C.N.R. traffic chief told the members that slogans had never been more popular than they are today.

"Your wonderful slogan 'Follow the Birds to Victoria' is known throughout North America. It tells the story . . . excites the imagination. Never be tempted to change it."

Mr. Lait said that during the 25 years he was stationed in New York, hundreds of Americans had been fascinated by the slogan and had gone out to "see for themselves."

His knowledge of United States and its traveling public gave Mr. Lait a special knowledge of "our cousins across the border."

This is what he had to say of the average U.S. tourist to Canada.

"He is a genial, friendly, self-satisfied fellow. He is fully convinced that the United States is the greatest and by far the richest country on earth.

"He is perhaps inclined to do a bit of flag waving when away from home. He is a free but careful spender and looks for his money's worth but is generous to a fault."

Mr. Lait pointed out that sometimes our visitor might annoy us, but "let's be generous, understanding and slow to criticize. After all the U.S. is the richest tourist market available to us."

Referring to the increased value of the Canadian dollar, Mr. Lait said that Canada would have to fight harder and harder to attract the U.S. visitor.

"What we have to offer the tourist must be at least as good as that offered by others in the market. You cannot export scenery but you can export good will and happy memories."

Sewer System Results Likely Ready Monday

Whether new plans for the Saanich sewer system scheme have been approved by the provincial government probably will be made known Monday.

Submission of the plans is to be made by Reeve Joseph Casey.

The new plans show that direction of the flow changed from that of the original by-law as passed by the municipal affairs department.

Council meets Monday to hear the report.

Victoria Troupe Gets Preference If Entertainers Slated for Korea

If the Canadian government decides to send live entertainment to Canadian troops in Korea, special preference will be given Victoria's "Smile Show," according to a letter received by Jerry Gosley, show director.

The letter, from Brig. John Rockingham, commander of Canadians in Korea, says, ". . . everything will be done at this end to bring you and your troupe to fore they embarked for the Far Korea. Those concerned at Ottawa have been requested to give your troupe special preference."

Original offer of the show to entertain troops in Korea was made last April, after members had performed for Canadian soldiers at Fort Lewis, Wash., before they embarked for the Far East.

The troupe includes Mr. Gosley, master of ceremonies, Irene Henderson, Verna Moore, Al Denoni, Frank Moore, Bob Hurst, George Porter and Reg Stofer.

F. McGregor, Mutual Agent, Plans to Retire

Fred M. McGregor, manager of the Victoria office of Mutual Life of Canada, has announced his retirement after 36 years of service on Vancouver Island.

Mr. McGregor, widely known in business circles over the whole of Western Canada, has sold millions of dollars worth of life insurance during his business career. He joined Mutual in 1909.

FRED M. McGREGOR

Besides business service, he was very active in many welfare and philanthropic movements. During the war he was a leader in sale of war bonds in connection with various victory loans.

Other activities with which he has been closely associated include the Y.M.C.A., Salvation Army, Community Chest, Red Cross and Kiwanis Club, Chamber of Commerce, Canadian Club and others.

Mr. McGregor will continue to take an active interest in various business, social and welfare activities of the city.

Council Asked To Fight Boost

Victoria city council has been urged to take a strong stand against any transit fares increase.

Opposition to the B.C. Electric Co. application and plea for a city stand against the application were voiced in a letter to the city from the Labor Progressive Party.

The letter said that if the increase is granted, the company will have been given a 76 per cent increase in fares since the new franchise of 1947.

It was claimed any increase would cut into the standard of living of citizens.

or strikingly relieved
in 3 out of 4 cases in test by doctors!

• Chances are you're putting up—unnecessarily—with the functionally-caused pains, cramps and weak "no good" feelings of menstruation!

For, in actual tests by doctors, Lydia Pinkham's Compound brought complete or striking relief from such distress in 3 out of 4 of the cases!

Get Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—or new, improved Tablets and see if you don't get relief . . . see if you don't feel better during your period. See if you don't have the same experience as thousands who have benefited!

And remember—Lydia Pinkham's is grand for those "hot flashes" and other distress of change of life!

It has a quieting effect on uterine contractions that often cause menstrual pain!

SUGAR-GIANT GROUND CHERRY

An entirely new type of the popular Ground Cherry, but a jumbo in size, richer and sweeter. Grows from seed the first year and produces an abundance of golden yellow fruits up to 2¼ inches in diameter like medium tomatoes in papery husks. Take little garden space. Make delicious pies, preserves and marmalades. Quick, early, thrives everywhere. Be sure to enjoy this valuable new fruit in your garden this season. Pkt. 25c postpaid.

what's so different about hotels?

Scenery, for one thing. At the Sylvia, overlooking Vancouver's English Bay, you enjoy the glorious panorama of beach—sky—sea—mountains. And Sylvia Service is as outstanding as the scenery—attentive, genial, with a friendly interest that makes you feel at home. If you bring the younger members of the family, baby-sitting service is provided. Accommodation is varied—and reasonable.

You can cook your own meals or dine in the sky, where the food is as superb as the view. Though far from the noise of city traffic, you're within easy reach of town—at the Sylvia.
